Double Wedding Tonight For Widows Of Slain Troopers

THREE OAKS — A unique, double wedding will take place in the Harbert Community church this evening.

The widows of slain New Buffalo state police troopers Gary Rampy and Charles Stark are to be remarried.

Sandra Kay Stark, 37, and Tanya Kay Rampy, 31, will marry G. Harvey Kellogg, 40, and William G. Minzghor, 35, respectively.

Both women were suddenly left without their husbands Dec. 31, 1971, when both troopers were killed by gunshot after stopping an auto while on routine patrol near Union Pier. They were each left with two children.

"We probably would have both gotten married a lot sooner," Mrs. Rampy said yesterday afternoon, "but we've been waiting for the governor to sign the bill which allows widows of state troopers to receive their husbands' pensions even if they remarry." She said the governor signed the bill over the weekend.

Minzghor, (Mrs. Rampy's fiancé), who is also a state trooper stationed at New Buffalo for the past two years, said when the bill was originally passed in 1974, its wording was "messed up," so it included widows of troopers killed off-duty, and not on-duty as well.

"It's taken the legislature over 1½ years to correct its original mistake," he said.

Both women have been receiving annual pensions and now will continue to receive them after they are remarried. Mrs. Rampy had been receiving $6,023 and Mrs. Stark, $8,730.

Mrs. Stark's fiancé, Harvey Kellogg, is service manager at Hausmann Motor company, Three Oaks, where he has been employed for the past 23 years. Both men are divorced. Minzghor has three children

Bridgman Police Chief Michael Pedde started to investigate an auto stopped near the entrance ramp to the I-94 interchange at Bridgman. Pedde reported a shotgun blast was fired at him as he approached the vehicle on foot from his patrol car. The shot missed him, and the car raced away. The fleeing auto overturned at the Stevensville exit in an effort to evade a blocking patrol car.

The episode ended about 2 a.m. after Berrien Sheriff Forrest Jewell ordered tear gas fired into the overturned auto in an effort to end a two-hour stand-off.

Two shots were heard from inside the auto, and a short time later, one of the women screamed for help, saying that the two men had killed themselves.

Police said they had to pull Miss Gleason free of the car. Inside, they said, were the bodies of the two men, one shot in the head apparently with a shotgun and the other shot in the head apparently with a nearby .38 caliber pistol.

Immoos, said there was no identification on either body, and that fingerprints were being sent to Detroit to try to determine identities. The officer conjectured the two, black men apparently in their twenties, may have been from Detroit, as the car they were driving was reported stolen in Detroit yesterday.

Captain Immoos related other details of the case this way:

After Bridgman Chief Pedde was fired on, he broadcast the alarm on his patrol car radio, then gave pursuit north on I-94. The chase hit speeds exceeding 100 miles an hour.

Stevensville Patrolman Watkins blocked off the Stevensville exit with his patrol car, while a Berrien sheriff's car blocked the freeway. The car took the exit and flipped over on its top while trying to swerve around Watkins' auto. Watkins was hit by shotgun fire when he

One of the sisters was wounded in the arm by a bullet and was transferred this morning from St. Joseph Memorial hospital to Bronson hospital in Kalamazoo.

Both women were reported in a state of shock and unable to be questioned extensively by police, according to Capt. Ronald Immoos of the Berrien county sheriff's department.

The wounded sister was identified as Miss Jan L. Gleason, 17, of Kalamazoo, and the other as Mrs. Vicki Lynn Merrifield, 26, of Portage.

Stevensville Police Officer Martin Watkins, 28, was reported in "good" condition at Memorial hospital, with shotgun pellet wounds in one leg.

The bizarre episode began to unfold, according to Captain Immoos, about 11:20 p.m. when

Berrien's First Citizens' Jury Impanelled

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien county's first citizens' grand jury was impanelled yesterday and is expected to begin hearing testimony late next week about alleged official corruption and unsolved crimes in the county.

The 17 grand jurors were impanelled about three hours after Presiding Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes began examining prospective jurors for qualifications to sit on the grand jury. Hughes called the grand jury "a good representative cross-section of the public," noting nine men and eight women will sit as grand jurors.

There is one black on the grand jury while the other 16 are white, he said, but added no blacks were excused during the examination.

The ages of jurors range from people in their early 20's to people in their 70's, according to the judge.

Both Hughes and Assistant Prosecutor Michael Marrs, who is coordinating the grand jury investigation for the prosecutor's office, declined to release the names of the grand jurors, citing possible harassment.

Marrs stressed that people involved with the investigation are sworn to secrecy and are not at liberty to divulge details, but he said the grand jury was expected to convene "the first part of next week" and indicated jurors might hear some testimony in the latter part of the week.

The grand jury was selected from names drawn at random from the circuit, probate, and district court jury lists.

Prosecutor John A. Smietanka, in his original petition asking for the grand jury, cited "possible criminal violations by individuals including murder, extortion, arson, official corruption, embezzlement, distribution of controlled substances (narcotics), auto theft, criminal usury (loan-sharking), obstruction of justice and organized gambling."

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Ms. Hughes Learns About The Old Spoils System

Let's hear no more mealy-mouthed platitudes from Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph and City Commissioner Helen Ford about elevating other members of their black race into the "mainstream of American life."

Not after the hatchet job Joseph and Mrs. Ford did on City Atty. Yvonne Hughes, one of the most accomplished young blacks to come this way in a long time!

Anyone genuinely interested in the advancement of blacks and the black image would do everything possible to help Ms. Hughes' legal career along. Both by training and decorum, she's exceptional.

But when Ms. Hughes' professional integrity forced her to disagree with the Joseph-Ford version of the old spoils system, the 26-year-old lady lawyer got chopped down fast.

Joseph and Ford cranked up their automatic 6 to 3 majority on the city commission and had Ms. Hughes fired.

What had she done to displease Joseph and Ford?

Very simple. Benton Harbor has had only nominal stipends for mayor and city commissioners under its charter-dictated commission-manager form of government.

Mayor Joseph was rebuffed in an effort to make his post a full-time job when voters rejected strong mayor government in a charter revision election. So he and his allies pulled an end-around. A recently-created compensation commission recommended that the mayor get an annual salary of $25,000 and about $10,000 expense money. Commissioners would go from $5 to $30 per meeting.

On Jan. 5, Ms. Hughes issued a legal opinion that the huge increases were improperly recommended and in violation of the city charter.

Two of the three members of the pay board signing the controversial recommendation now are members of the city commission and were among the majority voting to fire City Atty. Hughes. One was Mrs. Ford.

Mrs. Ford has been making a good living on public or semi-public payrolls ever since she came here from Illinois six years ago as a "poverty fighter," an occupation she still follows.

Mayor Joseph says he has to have a full-time salary and a big expense account so he can successfully lead a campaign to clear up Benton Harbor's inner city social ills.

One would think two such people would have a soft spot in their hearts for a young black woman just beginning to make it up the ladder of professional success.

Except they never taught Ms. Hughes in law school that "to the victors belong the spoils."

Ex-City Atty. Hughes had the gall to think her job was to represent the people.

Bungling Bureaucracy

With all the welfare abuses which surface, the system can be terribly inflexible when genuine compassion is needed. We have in mind the plight of a Texas couple who have been married 62 years and because they still love one another are contemplating divorce.

Yes, divorce, because that is the only way they can continue paying the wife's nursing home bills. Welfare will take care of the expense, but only if she is single.

Of course it does not make sense, nor is this the first time something as ridiculous as this has happened. It may take months of red tape and bungling to take a person off welfare who has no business being on in the first place, but a couple who have done their best and simply cannot make it can be turned down unless they first destroy their marriage.

Is it any wonder the polls consistently show public anger at the institutions of government? If bureaucracy really cared about what it was doing it would find a way to say: damn the system, these people need help and they are going to have it.

Welfare really is that simple. Help those in genuine need, deny those who take advantage. Only the red tape specialist makes it complicated.

Older And Different

"It will not be easy," warned President Kennedy 15 years ago — on March 1, 1961 — when he sent a message to Congress proposing the authorization of a permanent Peace Corps. "None of the men and women will be paid a salary," Kennedy explained. "They will live at the same level as the citizens of the country which they are sent to, doing the same work, eating the same food, speaking the same language." Clearly, the President was not inviting America's youth to a picnic. But the response was impressive.

At the peak of its operation in 1966, the Peace Corps had 15,556 volunteers and trainees in 52 countries. Its budget was $114 million. The typical volunteer in the early years was a young liberal arts college graduate with a strong sense of mission. "Admittedly, I was a young, brash Peace Corps volunteer (PCV) with a head full of ideals," wrote Vic Cox, recalling his 1964 arrival in Brazil (Human Behavior magazine, February 1976). "I had jumped directly from a liberal arts education at the University of California at Santa Barbara into an 11-week stateside course in basic public health, Brazilian cultural studies and Portuguese."

Since those days, the Peace Corps has experienced many changes. In 1971, it merged with VISTA and several other domestic volunteer-service agencies to form an agency called ACTION. More important than that, however, the Corps underwent a philosophical shift in emphasis. Instead of recruiting young generalists just out of college, it now concentrates on getting persons with special technical skills. The result has been older, more experienced volunteers. Several are age 60 and over.

Today's Peace Corps, which has about 7,300 volunteers, is about half the size it was in 1966. But the number of foreign countries receiving recruits has increased by 16. It now stands at 68. Mike Balzano, director of ACTION, acknowledged to U.S. News & World Report last July that the Peace Corps was not getting the publicity it once did. "But perhaps this is just as well," he said. "Perhaps this is the time for America to work quietly and effectively to achieve realistic goals of cooperation with the peoples of the developing worlds. This the Peace Corps can and will do."

Queen Group Protests Lakeshore Charge For Use Of Auditorium

Editor,
Now that Blossomtime is getting into full swing for our Bicentennial year, with the selection of several community Queens, our small community is once again faced with a problem that has presented itself every year at this time. A group of us feel it should be brought to the public's attention, especially those of the Lakeshore School district, just how much work and expense is involved in producing a pageant, so that our community may be represented in the annual Blossomtime Festival.

We, not only have committees who voluntarily give of their for Queen contests. The Lakeshore School Board is aware of this problem and has received a statement of our budget, but unfortunately, they do not want to change their policy. What can we do?

Next year, it is not likely Baroda will have a contest, since their budget cannot afford the rent of the Lakeshore Auditorium, which should already be supported by the Lakeshore school taxes.

Who Did Kill John F. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Who did kill John F. Kennedy? According to ideas recently popularized to excess, it was Lyndon Johnson, or Richard Nixon, or Abraham Zapruder, or J. Edgar Hoover, or Allan Dulles, or all of the above. Occasionally someone goes so far as to suggest it was a looney named Lee Harvey Oswald.

But nobody knows for certain, and the trouble is that with the stripistic speculation getting in the way no one may ever know.

Once the obsessions of people who came out only at night, assassination theories have become so widely and ridiculously available that the end result may be, according to one Harold Weisberg, to destroy the chances of getting Americans really interested in finding the truth.

Weisberg should know about the psychology of conspiracy theories. He's theorized a few times himself. As perhaps the first American to be absorbed by the JFK murder — he says he has not slept soundly for 14 years — he has written seven published books, all entitled "Whitewash," in which he has advanced the notion that Oswald could not have killed Kennedy because "his rifle could not have been the murder weapon."

For all his stringency, Weisberg is perhaps a bit confused by stringency. Weisberg is perhaps as anyone concerning the assassination. Certainly he is one of the most thorough of the civilian investigators. The college lecture circuit that appears to have softened the brain of Mark Lane, is not for him.

It should be inserted here that there are those in the assassination investigation culture who feel Weisberg is less than perfect also. But this is understandable in a movement where almost everyone hates almost everyone. Each theorist believes himself to be genuine and all others to be illegitimate. Notably excluded from this generally, perhaps, are Sylvia Meagher, now more or less retired after publishing her authoritative "Accessory After the Fact," and Howard Hoffman, a law student who is one of the youngest of the assassination "experts" and whose reputation is fairly solid.

But back to Weisberg. He sees little good resulting from the current popularity of anti-establishment assassination theories. "The trouble is everybody keeps trying to address the question: who killed JFK? We'll never know that, maybe we never can know it. What we should be concentrating on is the absolute destruction of the Warren Commission Report." Why was it faked, Weisberg wonders, and why did our institutions cover it up? That is the real import of the matter.

Rhetoric aside, Weisberg speaks here of the true hurt of 1963. Kennedy's killer is a secondary issue; the relationship of the government to the people is the thing that endures. Major officials betrayed their trust, authorities in democratic institutions polluted themselves with lies and evasions. And still the people wait for the truth. Why? asks Harold Weisberg. It is a vital question.

ERA Is Still On The Track

WASHINGTON (KFS) — The Equal Rights Amendment is not going to be ratified this year, barring a miracle. But that does not mean ERA is dead; it is merely delayed.

Only nine state legislatures are even "likely" to consider ERA this year, according to the National Women's Political Caucus (NWPC). They are all states in which it has previously been proposed and either bottled up in committee or defeated. Virginia has already acted to kill the amendment this session.

Repeal efforts are expected in nine other states which have ratified. Two states, Nebraska and Tennessee, have rescinded their prior ratification, but legal scholars doubt the validity of such action.

These setbacks to equal rights for women appear to have galvanized both the forces supporting the amendment and those opposing it. A new national campaign organization to be called ERAMERICA will be formally announced soon to coordinate the ratification efforts of such national groups as the League of Women Voters, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, American Association of University Women, Common Cause, National Organization for Women, and NWPC.

And Phyllis Schlafly, chairman of the national "Stop ERA" campaign, has come up with a brand new scare to add to her familiar charges that ERA will mean common toilets, women as cannon fodder and the loss of alimony and child support. She told a press conference that the amendment would mean that the care of children would be turned over to the government, since an increase in working mothers would create a need for "universal child care centers."

Her sensational charge has more factual basis than her previous efforts to play upon the fears of women. ERA will not force a single woman to work outside the home who does not want to do so. Nor would it force any parent to place a child in a day-care center.

Supporters of ERA have been slow to realize how effective such distortions and appeals to female insecurity have been in confusing both men and women about the impact of the amendment. A major goal of ERAMERICA will be to educate voters as to what ERA will and will not do.

The amendment does not say that men and women are the same; it does say men and women are to be treated equally before the law. Women have been discriminated against legally, socially and economically because of old-fashioned prejudices and misconceptions. Women are not protected by existing legislation; sex discrimination is included in only one of the 11 titles of the Civil Rights Act. And the courts have historically been reluctant to grant women equal protection under the 14th Amendment, which focuses on racial rather than sexual discrimination.

Both Schlafly and ERAMERICA expect little real action on the amendment this year but are gearing up for major campaigns in 1977.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Ms. Hughes Learns About The Old Spoils System

Let's hear no more mealy-mouthed platitudes from Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph and City Commissioner Helen Ford about elevating other members of their black race into the "mainstream of American life."

Not after the hatchet job Joseph and Mrs. Ford did on City Atty. Yvonne Hughes, one of the most accomplished young blacks to come this way in a long time!

Anyone genuinely interested in the advancement of blacks and the black image would do everything possible to help Ms. Hughes' legal career along. Both by training and decorum, she's exceptional.

But when Ms. Hughes' professional integrity forced her to disagree with the Joseph-Ford version of the old spoils system, the 26-year-old lady lawyer got chopped down fast.

Joseph and Ford cranked up their automatic 6 to 3 majority on the city commission and had Ms. Hughes fired.

What had she done to displease Joseph and Ford?

Very simple. Benton Harbor has had only nominal stipends for mayor and city commissioners under its charter-dictated commission-manager form of government.

Mayor Joseph was rebuffed in an effort to make his post a full-time job when voters rejected strong mayor government in a charter revision election. So he and his allies pulled an end-around.

A recently-created compensation commission recommended that the mayor get an annual salary of $25,000 and about $10,000 expense money. Commissioners would go from $5 to $30 per meeting.

On Jan. 5, Ms. Hughes issued a legal opinion that the huge increases were improperly recommended and in violation of the city charter.

Two of the three members of the pay board signing the controversial recommendation now are members of the city commission and were among the majority voting to fire City Atty. Hughes. One was Mrs. Ford.

Mrs. Ford has been making a good living on public or semi-public payrolls ever since she came here from Illinois six years ago as a "poverty fighter," an occupation she still follows.

Mayor Joseph says he has to have a full-time salary and a big expense account so he can successfully lead a campaign to clear up Benton Harbor's inner city social ills.

One would think two such people would have a soft spot in their hearts for a young black woman just beginning to make it up the ladder of professional success.

Except they never taught Ms. Hughes in law school that "to the victors belong the spoils."

Ex-City Atty. Hughes had the gall to think her job was to represent the people.

Bungling Bureaucracy

With all the welfare abuses which surface, the system can be terribly inflexible when genuine compassion is needed. We have in mind the plight of a Texas couple who have been married 62 years and because they still love one another are contemplating divorce.

Yes, divorce, because that is the only way they can continue paying the wife's nursing home bills. Welfare will take care of the expense, but only if she is single.

Of course it does not make sense, nor is this the first time something as ridiculous as this has happened. It may take months of red tape and bungling to take a person off welfare who has no business being on in the first place, but a couple who have done their best and simply cannot make it can be turned down unless they first destroy their marriage.

Is it any wonder the polls consistently show public anger at the institutions of government? If bureaucracy really cared about what it was doing it would find a way to say: damn the system, these people need help and they are going to have it.

Welfare really is that simple. Help those in genuine need, deny those who take advantage. Only the red tape specialist makes it complicated.

Older And Different

"It will not be easy," warned President Kennedy 15 years ago — on March 1, 1961 — when he sent a message to Congress proposing the authorization of a permanent Peace Corps. "None of the men and women will be paid a salary," Kennedy explained. "They will live at the same level as the citizens of the country which they are sent to, doing the same work, eating the same food, speaking the same language." Clearly, the President was not inviting America's youth to a picnic. But the response was impressive.

Since those days, the Peace Corps has experienced many changes. In 1971, it merged with VISTA and several other domestic volunteer-service agencies to form an agency called ACTION. More important than that, however, the Corps underwent a philosophical shift in emphasis. Instead of recruiting young generalists just out of college, it now concentrates on getting persons with special technical skills. The result has been older, more experienced volunteers. Several are age 60 and over.

Today's Peace Corps, which has about 7,300 volunteers, is about half the size it was in 1966. But the number of foreign countries receiving recruits has increased by 16. It now stands at 68. Mike Balzano, director of ACTION, acknowledged to U.S. News & World Report last July that the Peace Corps was not getting the publicity it once did. "But perhaps this is just as well," he said. "Perhaps this is the time for America to work quietly and effectively to achieve realistic goals of cooperation with the peoples of the developing worlds. This the Peace Corps can and will do."

Queen Group Protests Lakeshore Charge For Use Of Auditorium

Editor,

Now that Blossomtime is getting into full swing for our Bicentennial year, with the selection of several community Queens, our small community is once again faced with a problem that has presented itself every year at this time. A group of us feel it should be brought to the public's attention, especially those of the Lakeshore School district, just how much work and expense is involved in producing a pageant, so that our community may be represented in the annual Blossomtime Festival.

We, not only have committees who voluntarily give of their

for Queen contests. The Lakeshore School board is aware of this problem and has received a statement of our budget, but unfortunately, they do not want to change their policy. What can we do?

Next year it is not likely Baroda will have a contest, since their budget cannot afford the rent of the Lakeshore auditorium, which should already be supported by the Lakeshore school taxes.

SEATING PUZZLES
THIS GAELS FAN

Editor,

I have been puzzled for the last couple years, ever since Berrien Springs joined the small Red Arrow league, over the hospitality (?) shown a visiting crowd in the big gym. I'm sure others must get the same treatment. They automatically divide the visitors all over the gym. I invite the athletic director to sit among the visitors and cheer for his team. He might as well save his money and stay home, because it is not a pleasant experience. Even though we are adults, we are human in that we feel strongly for our team and wouldn't appreciate a thorn among us for agitation. (This was evident Friday night when some Galien spectators gave up from where they were told they had to sit, among Berrien Springs, and practically sat on others' laps so they could cheer freely among us.) When any team comes to Galien, they automatically are given one-half of our gym, although there hasn't been one team bring a capacity following with them this year, whereas Galien folds up their time to work; but we have the local community patrons who donate money to help cover the cost of a contest. All money made from ticket sales and donations is applied to incoming bills for the current year and any remainder is set aside for future Queen contests.

This is not a profit-making project. The communities of Baroda and Stevensville, not only must be prepared to cover costs of publicity, stage decorations, etc., but they have the added (and incidentally largest) expense of renting the Lakeshore High School auditorium in which to present their contest. Is this fair to the Lakeshore School taxpayers, to have to rent an auditorium in their own school district in order to have their queen contest?

This is an activity that involves residents of that school district. The rental is $300 plus paying students and those already employed by the school for any help they might give the Queen committee. In all, the rent and labor amounts to over $400.

The following is a brief summary of our budget; these figures have been rounded off to the nearest dollar:

Stage decorations and contestants costume accessories, $110; Publicity, tickets, programs, $50; Flowers, contestants, judges, etc. $94; Entry into Blossomtime Contest, $125; and Dinner for contestants and judges, if given, $135. (This year the dinner was given at the personal expense of each committee member to save money.) Auditorium Rent, $300; (committee is willing to pay reasonable maintenance fee.) and school labor, $160. (Most of the work is done by our own committee.)

Lakeshore Taxpayers, the above is what happens to the money made from your local pageants. We feel it is unfair for the Lakeshore School Board to require rent from Baroda and Stevensville for the use of the Lakeshore Auditorium in which to present their Queen Contests.

Other communities, such as Bridgman and New Troy, tell us their schools do not require them to rent their auditoriums

Who Did Kill John F. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Who did kill John F. Kennedy? According to ideas recently popularized to excess, it was Lyndon Johnson, or Richard Nixon, or Abraham Zapruder, or J. Edgar Hoover, or Allan Dulles, or all of the above. Occasionally someone goes so far as to suggest it was a looney named Lee Harvey Oswald.

But nobody knows for certain, and the trouble is that with the simplistic speculation getting in the way no one may ever know.

Once the obsessions of people who came out only at night, assassination theories have become so widely and ridiculously available that the end result may be, according to one Harold Weisberg, to destroy the chances of getting Americans really interested in finding the truth.

Weisberg should know about the psychology of zany theorizing. He's theorized a few zany himself. As perhaps the first American to be absorbed by the JFK murder — he says he has not slept soundly for 14 years — he has written seven published books, all entitled "Whitewash," in which he has advanced the notion that Oswald could not have killed Kennedy because "his rifle could not have been the murder weapon."

For all his stringent convictions concerning a matter disgracefully confused by stringent convictions, Weisberg is perhaps as authoritative as anyone concerning the assassination. Certainly he is one of the most thorough of the civilian investigators. The college lecture circuit that appears to have softened the brain of Mark Lane, is not for him.

Rhetoric aside, Weisberg speaks here of the true hurt of 1963. Kennedy's killer is a secondary issue; the relationship of the government to the people is the sting that endures. Major officials betrayed their trust, authorities in democratic institutions polluted themselves with lies and evasions. And still the people wait for the truth. Why? asks Harold Weisberg. It is a vital question.

ERA Is Still On The Track

WASHINGTON (KFS) — The Equal Rights Amendment is not going to be ratified this year, barring a miracle. But that does not mean ERA is dead; it is merely delayed.

Only nine state legislatures are even "likely" to consider ERA this year, according to the National Women's Political Caucus (NWPC). They are all states in which it has previously been proposed and either bottled up in committee or defeated. Virginia has already acted to kill the amendment this session.

Rescission efforts are expected in nine other states which have ratified. Two states, Nebraska and Tennessee, have rescinded their prior ratification, but legal scholars doubt the validity of such action.

These setbacks to equal rights for women appear to have galvanized both the forces supporting the amendment and those opposing it. A new national campaign organization to be called ERAMERICA will be formally announced soon to coordinate the ratification efforts of such national groups as the League of Women Voters, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, American Association of University Women, Common Cause, National Organization for Women, and NWPC.

And Phyllis Schlafly, chairman of the national "Stop ERA" campaign, has come up with a brand new scare to add to her familiar charges that ERA will mean common toilets, women as cannon fodder and the loss of alimony and child support. She told a press conference that the amendment would mean that the care of children would be turned over to the government, since an increase in working mothers would create a need for "universal child care centers."

Her sensational charge has no more factual basis than her previous efforts to play upon the fears of women. ERA will not force a single woman to work outside the home who does not want to do so. Nor would it force any parent to place a child in a day-care center.

Supporters of ERA have been slow to realize how effective such distortions and appeals to female insecurity have been in confusing both men and women about the impact of the amendment. A major goal of ERAMERICA will be to educate voters as to what ERA will and will not do.

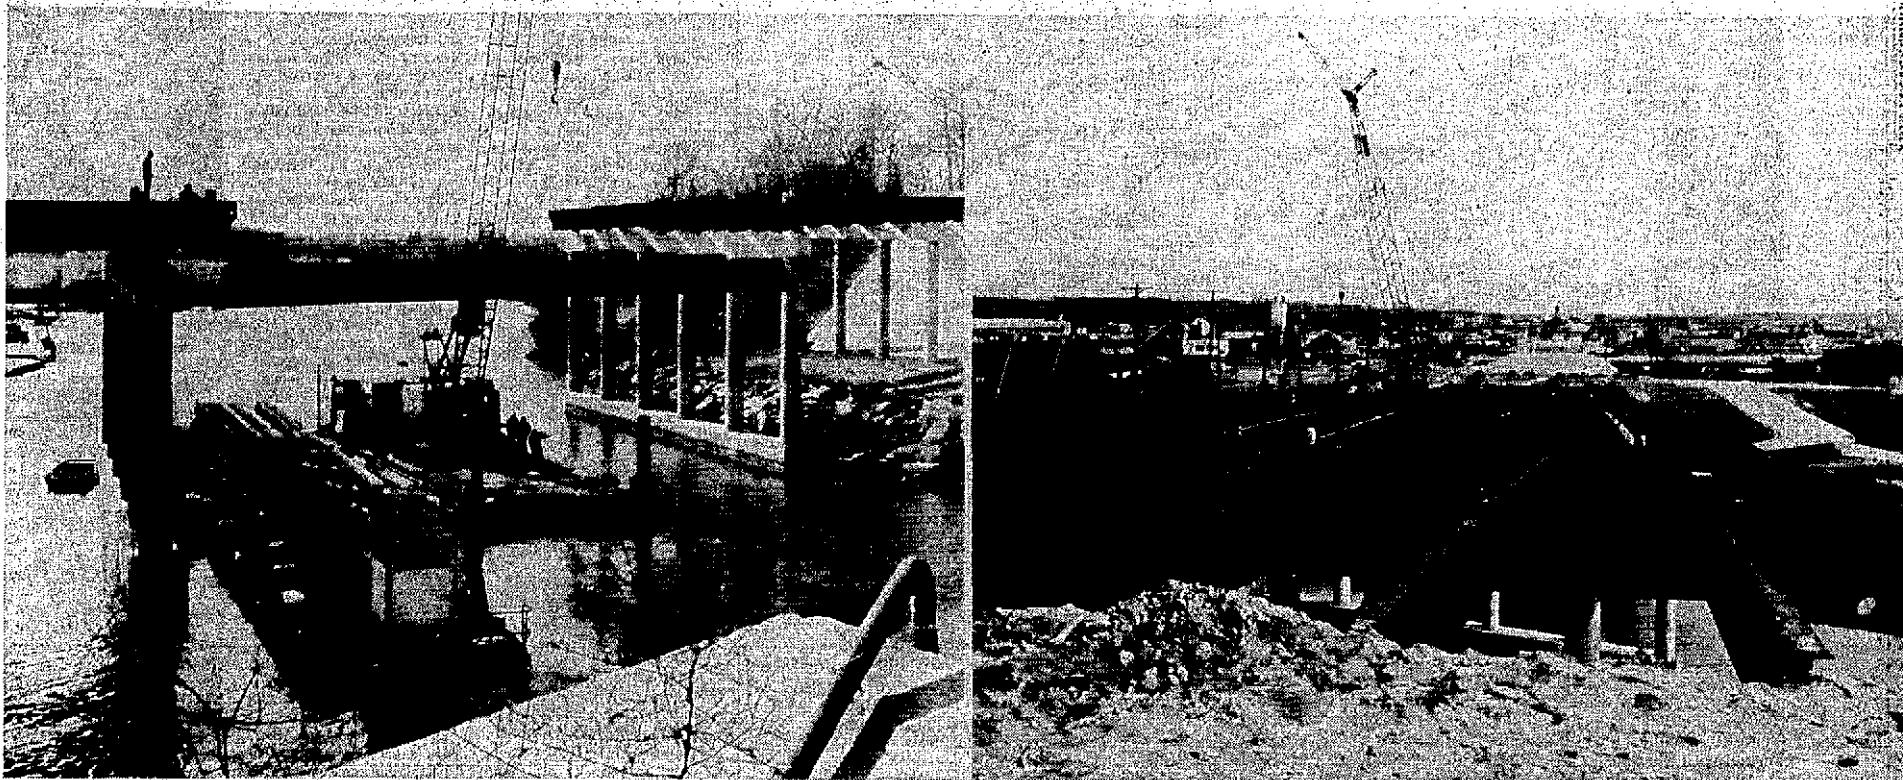

The amendment does not say that men and women are the same; it does say men and women are to be treated equally before the law. Women have been discriminated against legally, socially and economically because of old-fashioned prejudices and misconceptions. Women are not protected by existing legislation; sex discrimination is included in only one of the 11 titles of the Civil Rights Act. And the courts have historically been reluctant to grant women equal protection under the 14th Amendment, which focuses on racial rather than sexual discrimination.

Both Schlafly and ERAMERICA expect little real action on the amendment this year but are gearing up for major campaigns in 1977.

Benton Citizens Ask Better Streets, Sewers

Some 40 Benton township citizens agreed last night they want better streets and sewers with federal money — not demolition of houses and relocation of families.

The township board of trustees then took under advisement a suggestion by Trustee Margaret Crisnal to transfer funds marked for demolishing 24 substandard dwellings to public improvements.

The demand for public works was aired at the second of two public hearings on how the township should spend $1,022,000 in federal community development money Benton expects to receive next fiscal year.

The board is scheduled to adopt a plan for spending the money at its regular meeting next Tuesday. If approved the public works portion would increase from $200,000 to $410,000. Public works would gain $100,000 originally designated for demolishing substandard dwellings and relocating families to code-standard quarters; and another $30,000 earmarked for a commercial improvement study aimed at Territorial road and Fair avenue.

Trustee Crisnal suggested the transfer plan, saying improved streets, sewers and other utilities should be a long-range project — to 15 years if needed.

The community development program would retain a plan to rehabilitate dwellings that can be brought up to code. The budget provides $354,000 for rehabilitation loans or grants to occupants of 50 dwellings. Trustee Crisnal suggested that if any families had to be relocated, some of the rehabilitation budget might be used. This suggestion drew no comment from the board.

During the hearing, Sammie Smith, executive director of the Benton Harbor-Benton township Housing Commission, said it's useless to improve homes if there are not proper utilities to serve them.

"If you build a house in a swamp, it will sink into the swamp," Smith said.

Several citizens said inadequate drainage was widespread over the township, including the densely populated Benton Heights area. The citizens attributed broken streets to poor drainage and also noted absence of sanitary sewer lines in some areas. All agreed the problems have existed for nearly 20 years.

Trustee Crisnal said she agreed with Smith in offering her suggestion.

Trustee Walter Slowik said:

"I've been on the board for eight years and time and again we have held show cause hearings on demolishing houses. Many times, the owners would have rehabilitated the houses, if they had proper utilities—good streets and drainage. They didn't have, so the houses were torn down."

The hearing drew only one call for a social program, dealing with a senior citizens' project. Proponents of social programs outnumbered public works supporters during the first public hearing last week. Two public hearings on Community Development programs are required by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. The second year Community Development program for Benton township calls for a total budget of $1,022,000 and includes only $54,000 for social programs. These include a day care center, senior citizens' center and Can-Am games. Budget details were reported by this newspaper last week.

Departure Of Fired City Attorney Ignites Ruckus

By JIM SHANAHAN

Fired Benton Harbor City Atty Yvonne Hughes cleared out of her office yesterday after a hassle developed over what effects and papers she was taking with her.

The dispute involved Mayor Charles Joseph, City Commissioner Helen Ford, and members of a group attempting to recall Joseph, with police standing by.

After about 30 minutes of confrontation, Atty. Hughes departed, with materials to which she said she was entitled, in the back of her car.

She was minus one sheaf of papers which she said Joseph had collected and turned over to police.

Atty. Hughes said she was sorting materials in the office about 1 p.m. when Joseph, Mrs. Ford, and Donna Cooke, the mayor's administrative assistant, appeared in the city attorney's office.

Atty. Hughes said Mrs. Ford kept yelling "I should be arrested for trespassing because I'm no longer a public employee. I felt threatened. I really did."

Atty. Hughes said she then called Commissioner Charles Yarbrough, who was one of three commissioners who voted not to fire her Monday while the Joseph bloc had six votes for firing.

Yarbrough arrived along with former Commissioner Carl Brown, Maurice Bishop and others. Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Cooke and Joseph, then went upstairs to the mayor's office and a small crowd followed.

Bishop, leader of the recall drive, said he wanted to look through all of the mayor's papers since Joseph was checking what Atty. Hughes was taking "because they're all public records and should be open."

After the mayor's office was locked things cooled down and the 26-year-old attorney left.

Atty. Hughes was fired in the wake of issuing an opinion last month stating $25,000 salary determination for Joseph by compensation commission was improper and in violation of city charter. Attorney general's opinion is being sought on determination of salary commission that also boosted pay for city commissioners. Raises are being held in abeyance pending attorney general's opinion.

Bishop Says Recall Drive Needs 90 More Signatures

Maurice Bishop, leader of a recall drive against five members of the Benton Harbor city commission said today 90 signatures have been obtained for recall of Mayor Charles F. Joseph and Commissioner-at-large Barbara Luckaby.

That's 90 short of the valid number required to force an election, according to Bishop.

Bishop said last week the recall group was seeking 800 signatures in case any were found invalid.

Signatures on petitions for recall of three ward commissioners are about 65 per cent complete, Bishop said. The ward commissioners are Winton Minott, Alfred Williams and Charles Shepherd. Fewer signatures are needed for ward commissioners than for those elected at-large.

The recall drive is aimed at members of the commission who voted not to renew the contract of Charles Morrison as city manager.

Women's Assembly March 26 And 27

Increasing the role of women in politics is the aim of the Women's Assembly, a two-day citizen's political action seminar, Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, in Lansing at the Civic Center.

"The Women's Assembly is designed to give an in-depth look at how the legislative process works, what makes it work and methods of influencing it," Claire Jeannette, executive director for the event, says.

"At least 1,000 women from throughout the state, representing a wide range of state organizations, are expected to attend," Miss Jeannette says. "Our steering committee has contacted and received overwhelming support from dozens of organizations in the form of sponsorship and help in distributing brochures."

Groups such as Michigan branches of the League of Women Voters, National Organization for Women, the YWCA and the Michigan Education association have pledged support and donated volunteers and financial support, as well as five state representatives have lent their support as sponsors, she says.

The representatives include Connie Binsfeld (R-Maple City), Barbara-Rose Collins (D-Detroit), Daisy Elliott (D-Detroit), Colleen House Engler (R-Bay City) and Ruth McNamee (R-Birmingham). Miss Jeannette said the legislators together with Congresswoman Pat Schroeder (D-Colorado), Detroit Common Council members MaryAnn Mahaffey and Erna Henderson, State Labor Director Keith Molin and Michigan Citizens Lobby co-directors Doug Ross and Barbara Grossman, as well as several other well known political figures, will either address the full assembly or participate in small workshop sessions.

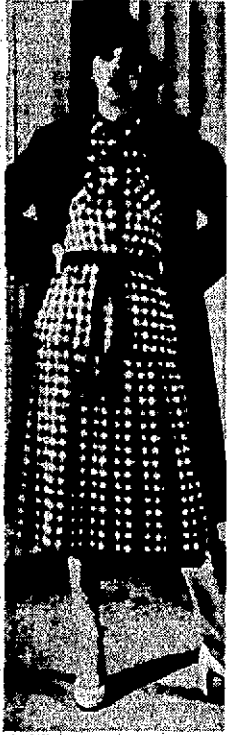

The Women's Assembly is the brainchild of eight women who got their momentum from legislative successes during 1974-75 in rape law reform and credit legislation. The eight — including the executive director of the Michigan Consumers Council, an assistant to the Governor, a district congressional representative and one of the state's few women lobbyists — decided last fall to pass along their experiences. They formed a steering committee and began groundwork for the Assembly.

Nostalgia At Peak During Nation's Bicentennial

Early-Day Favorites Recall The Past

Early American bakers drew a fine line between cakes and pies, often combining characteristics of each. Boston Cream Pie is a custard-filled cake made easily from a mix and glazed with fudgy chocolate.

BOSTON CREAM PIE

One package (seventeen-ounce) pound cake mix
Three-fourths cup milk
Two eggs, separated
Confectioners' sugar
Custard Filling
Chocolate Glaze

Prepare pound cake mix according to package directions using milk and egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold into batter. Pour into two greased nine-inch layer cake pans which have been lined with wax paper. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pans 10 minutes. Loosen edges with spatula and turn out onto wire racks; remove wax paper. Cool completely. Sprinkle sides of cakes with confectioners' sugar. Place one layer on serving plate; spread evenly with filling. Top with second layer; spread with glaze. Refrigerate until serving time, at least two hours. Makes ten (about two and three-fourths-inch) wedges.

CUSTARD FILLING

One-fourth cup granulated sugar
Two tablespoons cornstarch
One-eighth teaspoon salt
One cup milk
Two eggs, beaten
One tablespoon butter or margarine

One teaspoon vanilla extract
Combine first three ingredients in medium saucepan; stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils; boil one minute. Beat about half of hot mixture into eggs. Stir egg mixture back into saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring, until mixture thickens. Do not boil. Remove from heat and stir in butter and vanilla. Cover surface with wax paper and cool; chill in refrigerator.

CHOCOLATE GLAZE

One ounce unsweetened chocolate
One teaspoon butter or margarine

One cup sifted confectioners' sugar
Two tablespoons boiling water
Heat chocolate and butter over hot water until melted. Stir in sugar and water. Continue stirring until smooth and spreadable. Use immediately.

Beans were a staple item in the colonists' hearty diet. Long-simmering soups such as Black Bean Soup were flavored with smoked meat, vegetables, herbs and spices for a tasty and nutritious supper.

BLACK BEAN SOUP

One smoked pork back (one to one and one-half pounds)
One pound dried black beans (about two and one-half cups)
Two and one-half quarts water
One (eight-ounce) can tomato sauce
One cup chopped onions
One cup chopped celery
One-half cup chopped carrot
One and one-half teaspoons salt
Five whole cloves
Two bay leaves
One-fourth cup dry sherry
One tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
One tablespoon lemon juice
Lemon slices
Chopped hard-cooked eggs
Crackers

Combine first ten ingredients in a large soup kettle. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, about three hours or until beans are very tender. Remove meat and reserve. Discard bones and bay leaves. Puree soup in electric blender or pass through a sieve; return to kettle. Dice meat and add to soup with next three ingredients. Reheat. Garnish with lemon and eggs and serve with crackers. Makes eight (one and one-fourth cup) servings.

This is the year of national nostalgia.

Among other cherished symbols of our past, we recall the cast iron stew kettle hanging over the open hearth. While spinning, weaving, rocking the cradle and countless other necessary things went on in the kitchen, the stew simmered.

And on the westward trail, the first thing to be set up when the pioneer wagon train encamped for the night was the tripod over the fire to be filled with the makings of a stew using to best advantage whatever was at hand. Dried and cured meats were usually carried in the covered wagons so that when no fresh meat, fowl or fish was available, a stew made from dried beef or venison could be counted on to satisfy the hunger of another day.

Later, out on the western range, cowhands cooked their hearty Chuck wagon Stew or Sun of a Gun Stew. And, Southwestern pioneers, who quickly developed a taste for such Mexican condiments as bell peppers and chili, created California Settlers' Stew and Mulligan Stew.

But the familiar favorites were remembered, too, and when possible, they were cooked in homestead kitchens. There were many versions of beef, chicken and veal stew often with seasonings and additions such as noodles or dumplings that were suggestive of the particular European origins of the settlers.

In the old days, most stews required long slow cooking until, finally, the vegetables simmered down to make a consistency thick enough to be mopped up with bread or potatoes. But with the extra long cooking, color and texture were lost.

Now that meat cuts are tenderer, stew cooks in a shorter time and vegetables and meats can retain the natural flavor and color today's cooks prefer. It's quick and easy, too, to reach just the right consistency for the savory juices by thickening them with a small amount of corn starch mixed with a little cold water.

Here are three flavorful stews all thickened with corn starch. When making a stew without a recipe, as many experienced cooks do, the techniques of thickening are the same. For a stew that serves four to six, stir together three tablespoons corn starch with one-fourth cup water (or other liquid). After the stew is cooked, gradually stir in the corn starch mixture, stirring constantly; bring the stew to a boil and boil one minute. If the consistency is right, the stew is ready to serve. It is easy, however, to adjust the consistency. Thicken with a little more of the corn starch-water mixture or thin with extra broth.

ROSEMARY VEAL STEW

Three tablespoons margarine
One and one-half pounds stewing veal, cut in one and one-half-inch cubes
One can (sixteen ounces) whole onions
One can (three ounces) sliced mushrooms
One and one-half cups chicken

broth (about)
One-half teaspoon dried rosemary leaves
One-half teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
One cup milk
Three tablespoons corn starch
One cup cooked thin egg noodles

In large skillet or dutch oven melt margarine over medium

Decorate Cake Easily

Here is a good way to decorate a cake without any special tools or skill. It will work on fluffy or sugar icing of any kind.

Ice the cake with white icing, then tint a small amount in a contrasting color. Then take two pieces of thread, each of them longer than the cake is wide, and soak the thread in the colored icing. Hold the thread taut and cut through the icing on the cake in a straight line, leaving a thin line of coloring.

You can keep doing this with the colored frostings until you have a delightful plaid design. This can be worked into many patterns, also.

heat. Add meat and brown on all sides. Drain liquid from onions and mushrooms into measuring cup. Add enough chicken broth to bring volume to two and one-half cups. Pour over veal in skillet. Add rosemary, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until tender.

Remove skillet from heat. Stir together milk and corn starch until smooth. Add to skillet with onions, mushrooms and noodles. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, and boil one minute. Makes six servings.

AMERICAN BEEF STEW

Two pounds stewing beef, cut in one and one-half-inch cubes
One can (one pound three ounces) tomatoes
Two cups beef broth
One-fourth teaspoon dried marjoram
One and one-half teaspoons salt
One-fourth teaspoon pepper
Six to eight small white onions, peeled
Six to eight medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
Three to four carrots, peeled and cut in one-half-inch pieces
Two stalks celery, cut in one-half-inch pieces
One-fourth cup chopped fresh parsley
Three tablespoons corn starch

One-fourth cup water
In large kettle place, meat, tomatoes, broth, marjoram, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until meat is almost tender. Add onions, potatoes, carrots, celery and parsley. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Stir together corn starch and water. Gradually stir into stew. Bring to boil, stirring constantly, and boil one minute. Makes six to eight servings.

OLD FASHIONED CHICKEN STEW

Two broiler-fryer chickens, cut in parts
Six cups water (about)
Two cups sliced celery stalks and leaves
Three-fourths cup fresh parsley sprigs
Two medium onions, sliced
One chicken bouillon cube

Two teaspoons salt
One bay leaf
One-fourth teaspoon dried thyme leaves
Six tablespoons corn starch
Cooked rice

Place chicken in six-quart kettle; cover with water. Add celery, parsley, onion, bouillon cube, salt, bay leaf and thyme. Cover; bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer one and one-fourth hours or until chicken is tender.

Lift chicken out of broth and remove from bones. Strain and measure broth; adding water if necessary to bring volume to six cups. Return five cups broth to kettle. Stir together remaining broth and corn starch until smooth. Stir into broth in kettle. Bring to boil, stirring constantly and boil one minute until mixture is slightly thickened. Add chicken and heat. Serve over rice in soup bowls. Makes eight servings.

Combine first ten ingredients in a large soup kettle. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, about three hours or until beans are very tender. Remove meat and reserve. Discard bones and bay leaves. Puree soup in electric blender or pass through a sieve; return to kettle. Dice meat and add to soup with next three ingredients. Reheat. Garnish with lemon and eggs and serve with crackers. Makes eight (one and one-fourth cup) servings.

This is the year of national nostalgia.

Among other cherished symbols of our past, we recall the cast iron stew kettle hanging over the open hearth. While spinning, weaving, rocking the cradle and countless other necessary things went on in the kitchen, the stew simmered.

And on the westward trail, the first thing to be set up when the pioneer wagon train encamped for the night was the tripod over the fire to be filled with the makings of a stew using to best advantage whatever was at hand. Dried and cured meats were usually carried in the covered wagons so that when no fresh meat, fowl or fish was available, a stew made from dried beef or venison could be counted on to satisfy the hunger of another day.

Later, out on the western range, cowhands cooked their hearty Chuck wagon Stew or Sun of a Gun Stew. And, Southwestern pioneers, who quickly developed a taste for such Mexican condiments as bell peppers and chili, created California Settlers' Stew and Mulligan Stew.

But the familiar favorites were remembered, too, and when possible, they were cooked in homestead kitchens. There were many versions of beef, chicken and veal stew often with seasonings and additions such as noodles or dumplings that were suggestive of the particular European origins of the settlers.

In the old days, most stews required long slow cooking until, finally, the vegetables simmered down to make a consistency thick enough to be mopped up with bread or potatoes. But with the extra long cooking, color and texture were lost.

Now that meat cuts are tender, stew cooks in a shorter time and vegetables and meats can retain the natural flavor and color today's cooks prefer. It's quick and easy, too, to reach just the right consistency for the savory juices by thickening them with a small amount of corn starch mixed with a little cold water.

Here are three flavorful stews all thickened with corn starch. When making a stew without a recipe, as many experienced cooks do, the techniques of thickening are the same. For a stew that serves four to six, stir together three tablespoons corn starch with one-fourth cup water (or other liquid). After the stew is cooked, gradually stir in the corn starch mixture; stirring constantly, bring the stew to a boil and boil one minute. If the consistency is right, the stew is ready to serve. It is easy, however, to adjust the consistency. Thicken with a little more of the corn starch-water mixture or thin with extra broth.

ROSEMARY VEAL STEW

One and one-half pounds stewing veal, cut in one and one-half-inch cubes
One can (sixteen ounces) whole onions
One can (three ounces) sliced mushrooms
One and one-half cups chicken

One-half teaspoon dried rosemary leaves
One-half teaspoon salt

Decorate Cake Easily

Here is a good way to decorate a cake without any special tools or skill. It will work on fluffy or sugar icing of any kind.

Ice the cake with white icing, then tint a small amount in a contrasting color. Then take two pieces of thread, each of them longer than the cake is wide, and soak the thread in the colored icing. Hold the thread taut and cut through the icing on the cake in a straight line, leaving a thin line of coloring.

heat. Add meat and brown on all sides. Drain liquid from onions and mushrooms into measuring cup. Add enough chicken broth to bring volume to two and one-half cups. Pour over veal in skillet. Add rosemary, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until tender.

Remove skillet from heat. Stir together milk and corn starch until smooth. Add to skillet with onions, mushrooms and noodles. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, and boil one minute. Makes six servings.

AMERICAN BEEF STEW
Two pounds stewing beef, cut in one and one-half-inch cubes
One can (one pound three ounces) tomatoes
Two cups beef broth
One-fourth teaspoon dried marjoram
One and one-half teaspoons salt

Six to eight small white onions, peeled
Six to eight medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
Three to four carrots, peeled and cut in one-half-inch pieces
Two stalks celery, cut in one-half-inch pieces
One-fourth cup chopped fresh parsley
Three tablespoons corn starch

In large kettle place, meat, tomatoes, broth, marjoram, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until meat is almost tender. Add onions, potatoes, carrots, celery and parsley. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Stir together corn starch and water. Gradually stir into stew. Bring to boil, stirring constantly, and boil one minute. Makes six to eight servings.

OLD FASHIONED CHICKEN STEW
Two broiler-fryer chickens, cut in parts
Six cups water (about)
Two cups sliced celery stalks and leaves
Three-fourths cup fresh parsley sprigs
Two medium onions, sliced
One chicken bouillon cube

Two teaspoons salt
One bay leaf
One-fourth teaspoon dried thyme leaves
Six tablespoons corn starch
Cooked rice

Place chicken in six-quart kettle; cover with water. Add celery, parsley, onion, bouillon cube, salt, bay leaf and thyme. Cover; bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer one and one-fourth hours or until chicken is tender.

Lift chicken out of broth and remove from bones. Strain and measure broth; adding water if necessary to bring volume to six cups. Return five cups broth to kettle. Stir together remaining broth and corn starch until smooth. Stir into broth in kettle. Bring to boil, stirring constantly and boil one minute until mixture is slightly thickened. Add chicken and heat. Serve over rice in soup bowls. Makes eight servings.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

It's Time To Go AWOL

Dear Ann Landers: I am a retired army major, age 61, and a widower. Several months ago I met an attractive woman, 55. She is a retired army lieutenant colonel. We have become quite intimate and I would like to marry her.

The problem is she insists that because she outranks me I must salute her every night before we go to bed. This is annoying because she is only one rank above me. It's not as if she were a general.

Should I marry her, or go AWOL? — Soldier Boy, Ret.

Dear Soldier Boy: By all means, go over the hill. It's obvious your brains have already gone AWOL, but your writing hand is still on active duty. If you hadn't written to me on stationery from the Army-Navy Club in Washington, D.C., I'd have sworn the Yalies were at it again.

Need Him

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to "A Little Worried" was "a little crazy." Just because a man comes straight home from work every night and never goes anywhere without his wife in no sign he isn't doing plenty of daddin' on the side.

Clarence and I have been married 17 years. We have five children who think their dad is the greatest.

Clarence works six days and six nights a week and never goes any place without me. The hitch is that his work affords him ample opportunity to do as he damned well pleases. His faithful employees are great at covering up for him. He is always "out on a job" but no one ever knows exactly where.

The poor dear works 80 hours a week (for "us," he says). In the meantime he is seen in the goldrudest places with the most interesting-looking dolls. No wonder he's exhausted when he comes home at night. It's all he can do to fall in bed and snore his head off till the alarm clock rings at 6:00 a.m.

Why do I put up with it? Because I've taken your advice, Ann, and asked myself:

"Would I be better off with him or without him?" And the answer always comes out in favor of keeping two eyes closed and one mouth shut. — Nobody's Fool

No Letters

Dear N.F.: You and thousands of others. The solution to the straying husband problem isn't engraved on the Rosetta Stone. Each woman should listen to her own drummer and march accordingly.

Dear Ann Landers: You seem to be a person who has it all together. Will you please tell me why some people NEVER answer letters? I have friends and relatives who have owed me letters for years. I've written to some of them five and six times without a single response.

One friend in particular has phoned at least three times and taken an oath that a letter will be in the mail "tomorrow." It never is. Are such people liars? Are they crazy? Or are they just slobs? How do you classify them, Ann? — Nothing in My Mailbox

Dear Box: They may be neither liars, crazies or slobs. They just might be poor spellers, unsure of their grammar or ashamed of their penmanship. Such people protect themselves against exposure by not writing. So temper your judgment with mercy.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

The disease called Guinnessitis is with us.

Somewhere in this world it has attached itself to a four-man team of pasta lovers trying to consume more than 100 yards of spaghetti in less than 42 seconds.

Somewhere it has struck a man trying to walk more than 8,000 miles in 18 months — backwards.

Somewhere are afflicted twins trying to tip the scales collectively at more than 1300 pounds.

As one of the authors of the Guinness' Book of Records pointed out, this publication has become the poor man's marble statue — one of the few places where anyone can become immortal by being the biggest, best, fastest, slowest, tallest, least, last, oldest, or youngest.

My kids haven't been so intrigued with a book since they found "Catcher in the Rye" hidden in the linen closet under the beach towels the year they went to camp.

The other day I heard them talking.

"Hey, we ought to get Mom in the Guinness Book of Records."

"What has she done longer than anyone else?"

"She's been reading 'How To Be Your Own Best Friend' for two years now."

"That's not too long."

"For a book with only 56 pages?"

"I know. She's had diapers in pre-soak longer than any other woman. Anybody beat 15 years?"

"Is there anything in there for a refrigerator holding the most leftovers?"

"Hey," said one of the swiftees, "here's one that's perfect. A Russian woman produced 88 children. That would add up to about two a year."

"Forget it," said another one. "Mom's too conservative. Besides, she's starting to late."

"Not necessarily," said another one flipping through the pages. "It says here the oldest mother gave birth at 57 years, 129 days."

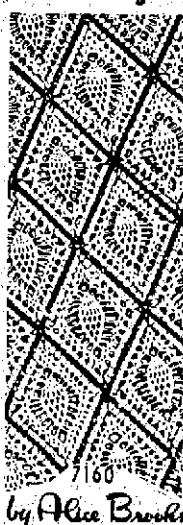

On the other side of the door, I swayed dizzily and leaned against the wall for support. Pictures began to materialize before my eyes — swallowing a diaper pin at 65; having my baby push me around in a stroller at the zoo, napping during the delivery, receiving a pacemaker for Mother's Day, fighting the kid for the baby food, having my own Cub Scout pack adopt me for Christmas, having Captain Kangaroo turn ME on, spanking the baby for coloring on my social security check.

"I got a better one," said one of the kids. "Let's see who has cried any longer than 23 years without stopping."

Dr. Lester Coleman

What foods should be avoided in a "low salt diet?"

Miss B.D., N.C.

Dear Miss D.: Salt is chemically known as sodium chloride. Most often a salt diet is in reality a low sodium diet. This particularly important because many foods are preserved with sodium benzoate, and these must be avoided in a low salt regime.

Carbonated drinks contain sodium and should be excluded from the diet.

Bread, cereals and pretzels made with baking soda or baking powder are a hidden source of sodium.

The obvious salt foods would, of course, be off the list such as bacon, sausage, brains, smoked meats, kidneys and salt fish.

Shellfish, canned fish and spicy sauces must be omitted from the diet. Vegetables canned with preservatives, sauerkraut, catsup and horseradish are not permitted in the diet.

At first, a salt-free or low-salt diet may seem to be a hardship. Actually it does not have to be. These diets can be made palatable with any of a number of available substitutes for salt.

There are so many varieties of laxatives on the market. How does one choose one safely?

Mrs. D.S., Way.

Dear Mrs. S.: Far too many people become dependent on laxatives. Well-balanced diets with adequate fruits and vegetables, cooked and raw, in addition to plenty of water, usually make laxatives unnecessary.

The fixed idea that everyone must have a bowel movement every day is false. There are no time clocks in the intestinal tract. And there should be no need for panic if "regularity" is not always present.

There are, of course, definite indications for the occasional use of a laxative. These are chosen by physicians who know which really are best for their particular patient.

Laxatives act in various ways. Some are mild. Some are irritating. Still others are bulk-forming, while others are lubricants. A patient's need depends on the cause of his bowel dysfunction. His own doctor is in the best position to make the ideal choice when a laxative is required.

The chances are that almost every one who has played rubber bridge has run across today's extremely frenzied hand. The reason is that if you take a new deck of cards, cut it as often as you wish, give it one absolutely perfect shuffle, cut it some more and then deal it out, you will produce this monstrosity.

If the dealer happens to hold the spade suit and he and his partner are using the grand slam force, the bidding is likely to proceed along the lines shown in the box.

Then, anything can happen with freak hands. We can imagine tens of thousands of bidding sequences. Some people may even stop short of a slam. Others will double their opponents somewhere along the way.

The one thing we can be certain of is that irrespective of who gets to bid first the side with the spades is likely to win by playing the hand and if they get pushed into seven they are likely to be doubled.

No Babies On Bikes

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Bicycle Manufacturers Association says bikes should not be used to carry babies.

Some dealers are refusing to sell baby carriers and many of them advise against using them.

Dr. Lester Coleman

What foods should be avoided in a "low salt diet?"

Miss B.D., N.C.

Dear Miss D.:

Salt is chemically known as sodium chloride. Most often a salt diet is in reality a low sodium diet. This particularly important because many foods are preserved with sodium benzoate, and these must be avoided in a low salt regime.

Carbonated drinks contain sodium and should be excluded from the diet.

Bread, cereals and pretzels made with baking soda or baking powder are a hidden source of sodium.

The obvious salt foods would, of course, be off the list such as bacon, sausage, brains, smoked meats, kidneys and salt fish.

Shellfish, canned fish and spicy sauces must be omitted from the diet. Vegetables canned with preservatives, sauerkraut, catsup and horseradish are not permitted in the diet.

At first, a salt-free or low-salt diet may seem to be a hardship. Actually it does not have to be. These diets can be made palatable with any of a number of available substitutes for salt.

There are so many varieties of laxatives on the market. How does one choose one safely?

Mrs. D.S., Way.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Far too many people become dependent on laxatives. Well-balanced diets with adequate fruits and vegetables, cooked and raw, in addition to plenty of water, usually make laxatives unnecessary.

The fixed idea that everyone must have a bowel movement every day is false. There are no time clocks in the intestinal tract. And there should be no need for panic if "regularity" is not always present.

There are, of course, definite indications for the occasional use of a laxative. These are chosen by physicians who know which really are best for their particular patient.

Laxatives act in various ways. Some are mild. Some are irritating. Still others are bulk-forming, while others are lubricants. A patient's need depends on the cause of his bowel dysfunction. His own doctor is in the best position to make the ideal choice when a laxative is required.

Flint Policewoman Will Stand Trial

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A suspended black Flint policewoman was bound over to circuit court Tuesday for trial on assault charges in the wounding of a white male officer.

The charge against Madeline Fletcher, 20, stems from shooting last Dec. 27 of Walter Kalberer during an argument over which of them would drive their patrol car.

Miss Fletcher was also wounded in the incident and spent about a month in the hospital with a gunshot to the abdomen. Kalberer was hospitalized for two weeks with a wound to the thigh.

Detroit attorney Kenneth Cockrell, representing Miss Fletcher, said racism and sexism in the Flint Police Department would be a major part of the defense. He said his client will claim self-defense.

Cockrell asked Judge Basil P. Baker to issue a warrant charging Kalberer with assaulting Miss Fletcher, but Baker refused and scheduled a March 15 arraignment in circuit court. Miss Fletcher was freed on her own recognizance.

The two officers had been assigned to the same car on the day of the shooting because both their regular partners were ill.

Testifying in district court Tuesday, Kalberer said he found Miss Fletcher in the driver's seat when he went out to the car and told her to move over. He said he was the senior officer of the pair and would be responsible for their actions.

Kalberer said Miss Fletcher called him a "white honky" and used abusive language. He said he then grabbed her by the coat collar and she laid back on the seat and kicked at him.

The officer said he backed up and was going to get a superior to settle the dispute but Miss Fletcher came out of the car with her police stick.

Kalberer said he drew his own stick to fend off the blows, struck her twice with the stick and knocked her club away. He said she then ran about 10 feet away, turned, drew her service revolver and fired once, hitting him in the thigh.

He said she then pointed her gun at the six to eight other officers going on duty and he drew his gun and fired four times.

Under cross-examination, Kalberer admitted he had requested in writing a year ago that he not be assigned to work with a woman officer.

Officer Clyde Petrella confirmed the basic outlines of Kalberer's testimony, adding that Miss Fletcher screamed she would kill all the officers as

Sales Jump

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales in mid-February jumped 21 per cent from week year-earlier levels as the nation's car makers reported their second best selling tempo for the period in seven years. Industry analysts said the sales figures were more strong evidence of an accelerated recovery in the new-car market.

she turned her gun on them.

A third officer, Perry Hancock, testified that Kalberer had used abusive language when initially asking Miss Fletcher to move over. He also said Kalberer took several steps toward the policewoman as she was retreating from the stick fight, contradicting Kalberer's statement that he did not move.

Ten Engineer Hopefuls Will Spend Day With Pros

Ten southwestern Michigan high school students are apprentice engineers for a day this week as they work with professional engineers in Berrien county industries. The day of practical experience is part of National Engineers Week, sponsored locally by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers.

The students were selected by their counselors as having outstanding potential for careers in engineering. Engineers week will be climaxed Thursday with a banquet at Andrews university following plant tours, judging of toothpick bridge and essay and awarding four $200 grants to college-bound students. Profiles of the student apprentice engineers, all seniors, are as follows:

Robert R. St. Clair, 17, Mat-tawan high school, son of Mr. and Mrs. George St. Clair, will spend the day with Erich W. Kant, performance supervisor for Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., Cook Nuclear plant, Bridge-map. The student is interested in nuclear engineering and plans to attend the University of Michigan.

Bernice C. Lucas, 16, Covert high school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Lucas, senior research engineer, Whirlpool Corp., Benton township. Miss Lucas plans to attend the University of Michigan. She won International Woman's Year award and is a semi-finalist in the National Achievement Scholarship program for out-standing Negro students.

Ellen Newsome, 17, Eau Claire high school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Ferguson, will be with Lou Blaveldt, plant engineer, Simplicity Pattern Co., Niles. Miss Newsome plans to attend Michigan Tech-nological university. She is a member of the National Honor society.

'Too Much To Live For,' Explosion Survivor Says

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Larry Fess says he had too much to live for to die trapped under the rubble of a Zilwaukee grain elevator.

"Everybody said how brave I was," said Fess, who was injured in an explosion at the Zilwaukee grain terminal Jan. 22. "But actually, I was too darn stubborn to die."

He met with reporters at Saginaw General Hospital on Tuesday and recalled his dramatic rescue from the rubble.

Fess, 24, said he had too much to live for, especially 2-year-old Joshua Fess, his son.

"I didn't want to leave that great kid with no dad," he said.

Fess said the explosion "came as a big surprise to him. But his lawyer wouldn't permit him to discuss details of the accident in which five persons were killed."

Fess said he will always remember the noise and the flames.

"The next thing I knew I was buried," he said.

Fess said he looked up, and all he could see were cracks of light through the debris. "I really didn't know where I was, then I called out for Roger and George, but there was no answer."

He was talking about G. Roger Horner, 45, of Freeland and George Schumann, 23, a friend from Linwood, where Fess also lives. Both were later found dead under scattered bits of the grain control tower.

"I didn't feel any pain. I tried to dig out with my one free hand and arm," he said, adding he knew his right arm and hand were mangled but "I couldn't do anything about that."

He said he started yelling for help.

"After a while somebody answered me and said 'we know you're up there, hang on, we'll get to you,'" Fess recalled.

Fess said he wanted to keep track of time so he took off his watch and "took inventory of myself."

"Believe me, I had the time to do that," he laughed.

Fess said he felt his nose and then his ears, tried to move his arm and wiggled his toes. He tried to move his legs, but he said he "heard stuff falling all around," so he stopped. Fess said he finally could hear men yelling, trying to locate him.

"Then they started to dig me out. Once they started those guys just never quit. Boy, I can't say enough about those people who were up there helping me."

"Everybody kept me talking. I got pretty fidgety when they started talking about cutting my leg off. I said 'hey, guys, get me out of here,' and I started working my feet trying to get loose. The guys told me if we have to take you out of there bare, we're going to get you out."

Fess said he thought a lot about his wife, Karen, and knew she would be there waiting for him. But he said, he lost track of time after so many hours when the workmen finally freed him, he said "What a sensation. It was like being on a roller coaster ride."

Fess was lowered by a crane from the fourth level of the 225-foot tower. He spent 27 days in intensive care at the hospital.

Fess said there were many days when he didn't know day from night, and "I did a lot of praying."

House Rejects Heroin Distribution Plan

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An attempt to make state distribution of heroin to addicts part of a package aimed at yanking major heroin dealers off the street has been resoundingly killed by the House.

By a 78-22 vote Tuesday, lawmakers rejected the proposal, contained in an amendment offered by Rep. George Cushingberry Jr., Detroit.

Cushingberry has introduced a bill to authorize the state to allot heroin to addicts at cost and provide treatment if addicts want it.

He attempted to get that entire bill inserted into legislation requiring a mandatory life sentence for anyone convicted of holding or selling more than 25 ounces of heroin.

"Let's take the profits out of narcotics," he argued. Unless that is done, he said, any strong-arm legislation to fight drugs will be ineffective.

The mandatory life sentence is contained in a bill that is part of a package introduced by Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, Battle Creek, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Another part of the package is a controversial measure which legalizes wiretaps in investigations of drug cases involving 50 grams or more of heroin or cocaine. Fifty grams is roughly an ounce.

A law enforcement official would have to apply for a wiretapping warrant to a three-judge panel of the court of appeals. Two of those judges would have to sign the warrant.

The warrant would contain authorization to make secret entry of a residence to install a tap, and could include a statement directing a landlord to help a law enforcement official get in to install a tap unobtrusively.

The House amended the wiretap bill Tuesday so that it would expire at the end of 1978 rather than after 1980. The expiration date will allow the legislature to review the measure, determine if it was useful, and assess its effect on the public, Rosenbaum said.

Meanwhile, the Michigan ACLU contended at a news conference the Rosenbaum bill would create "warrant-less wiretaps, legalized government breaking and entering, and a statewide network—including the telephone company—of paid agents and assistants in breaking and entering into private homes."

Warbler Is State's Bicentennial Bird

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate gave the Kirtland's Warbler another feather for its cap Tuesday while the House scratched a bill to allow off-track betting on horses.

In other action, the Senate sent legislation establishing an arts education advisory committee in the Department of Education.

The Senate on a voice vote approved a House resolution making the tiny Kirtland's Warbler, an endangered species, Michigan's bicentennial bird.

Meanwhile, the House voted 79-28 against a bill that would have allowed counties to authorize off-track horse betting. The bill, sponsored by Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, was the latest version of a measure he has tried unsuccessfully to get through the legislature several times before.

Opponents said among other things that the bill would hurt Michigan race tracks since it would allow betting on out-of-state races.

The Senate approved 34-0 a bill establishing an arts education advisory committee in the education department to evaluate efforts and developments in Michigan's arts programs.

The committee also would recommend guidelines for arts programs in education.

Detroit Mayor Is Jeered

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young faced a hostile crowd earlier this week whose participants criticized the mayor over school busing, cutbacks in city services and his vacation-line. A standing-room-only crowd of about 250 attended the community meeting at a police precinct on Detroit's Northwest Side. Although racially mixed, the audience was predominantly white. One woman in the audience, Bessie Bouras, 62, walked up to the front of the room complaining about "rats and filth" in her neighborhood. As the mayor began explaining about the city's limited funds, the woman exploded, "What do you mean, 'We don't have any money?' You have enough money to go to Jamaica." Young said he pays for his vacations with his own money. But as the catcalls about Jamaica continued, the mayor became visibly angered and demanded: "What the hell has my vacation got to do with anything? When I go on vacation, that's my business, okay?"

'Too Much To Live For,' Explosion Survivor Says

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Larry Fess says he had too much to live for to die trapped under the rubble of a Zilwaukee grain elevator.

"Everybody said how brave I was," said Fess, who was injured in an explosion at the Zilwaukee grain terminal Jan. 22. "But actually, I was too darn stubborn to die."

He met with reporters at Saginaw General Hospital on Tuesday and recalled his dramatic rescue from the rubble.

Fess, 24, said he had too much to live for, especially 2-year-old Joshua Fess, his son.

"I didn't want to leave that great kid with no dad," he said.

Fess said the explosion came as a big surprise to him. But his lawyer wouldn't permit him to discuss details of the accident in which five persons were killed.

Fess said he will always remember the noise and the flames.

"The next thing I knew I was buried," he said.

Fess said he looked up, and all he could see were cracks of light through the debris. "I really didn't know where I was, then I called out for Roger and George, but there was no answer."

He was talking about G. Roger Horney, 45, of Freeland and George Schumann, 23, a friend from Linwood, where Fess also lives. Both were later found dead under scattered bits of the grain control tower.

"I didn't feel any pain. I tried to dig out with my one free hand and arm," he said, adding he knew his right arm and hand were mangled but "I couldn't do anything about that."

He said he started yelling for help.

"After a while somebody answered me and said 'we know you're up there, hang on, we'll get to you,'" Fess recalled.

Fess said he wanted to keep track of time so he took off his watch and "took inventory of myself."

"Believe me, I had the time to do that," he laughed.

Fess said he felt his nose and then his ears, tried to move his arm and wiggled his toes. He tried to move his legs, but he said he "heard stuff falling all around," so he stopped. Fess said he finally could hear men yelling, trying to locate him.

"Then they started to dig me out. Once they started those guys just never quit. Boy, I can't say enough about those people who were up there helping me."

"Everybody kept me talking. I got pretty fidgety when they started talking about cutting my leg off. I said 'hey, guys, get me out of here,' and I started working my feet trying to get loose. The guys told me if we have to take you out of there bare, we're going to get you out."

Nixon Denies He Meant Remarks As Criticism

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent
PEKING (AP) — Richard Nixon today denied criticizing the Helsinki Declaration or applauding a song calling for

Senate Debating DST Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is debating whether Daylight Saving Time should be extended to eight months, as it was last year, or whether it should run for six months or less.

Unless Congress acts, the country automatically goes back on six months of standard time and six months of DST. This means Daylight Saving now is set to run from April 25 to Oct. 31.

If Daylight Saving is extended to eight months under a bill before the Senate, it would run from March 7 to Nov. 14. The eight-month option — plus an additional week in November to avoid changing times in the last week of the presidential election campaign — is thought to have the edge in the Senate. But similar legislation is bottled up in the House Commerce Committee, leading some observers to doubt whether any bill can pass Congress this year.

Congress began experimenting with longer Daylight Saving Time periods as an energy-saving effort during the Arab oil boycott of 1973. The experiment started by extending DST through the entire year. For the next two years it ran for eight months.

Sens. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and Wendell Ford, D-Ky., both called for the defeat of any extension of Daylight Saving Time that would include the winter months. Ford has proposed cutting it back to five months.

the "liberation" of Taiwan during his visit to Peking.

"My God," he said to an aide when asked about the controversy over the toast he made at a banquet Sunday night. "I've used that statement a dozen times before and I used it in a general context. It could apply to the United Nations charter or the Shanghai Communiqué or any international document."

The statement referred to by Nixon was interpreted in some quarters as criticism of President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for joining the Soviet Union in the Helsinki agreement on European security and cooperation.

Nixon in his toast talked about the Shanghai Communiqué he signed four years ago with the late Premier Chou En-lai and then commented:

"There are, of course, some who believe that the mere act of signing a statement of principles or a diplomatic conference will bring instant and lasting peace. This is naive. There cannot and will not be lasting and secure peace until every nation in the world respects the security and independence of every other nation large or small."

Several State Department officials were angered by Nixon's comment, but both Kissinger and the White House said after reading the full text of the toast, they did not interpret it as a criticism.

Nixon also denied that when he applauded during a concert Monday night, he was clapping for a song calling for the ouster of the Nationalist Chinese regime from Taiwan.

"Like hell I did," he said. "I didn't really stand. It was just a gentleman-to-a-lady gesture. I stood for a lady who was standing, not for the song."

Chiang Ching, the wife of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, sat at Nixon's left during the concert and directed his attention to an English translation of one song which said:

"People of Taiwan, our own brothers, day and night, you are in our hearts. We are determined to liberate Taiwan Province and let the light of the sun shine on the island."

At the end of the song, Chiang Ching jumped to her feet applauding, and the other Chinese members of the official party also rose and clapped.

Nixon rose partially, applauding lightly.

Nixon on Tuesday afternoon had his third talk with Acting Premier Hua Kuo-feng and in the evening attended a small, informal dinner given by Hua in the Great Hall of the People.

Today, the chairman of the Revolutionary Committee of Tsinghua University, Chi Chuan, confirmed to Nixon that the man Chou En-lai picked to be his successor, First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, is once more in disgrace.

Teng was purged during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution. Chou rehabilitated him as part of his campaign to end the turmoil, get government operations back on a smooth basis and resume industrial development. But after Chou's death, Teng became the target of a critical wall-poster campaign, and Hua was named acting premier.

'March' To Benefit

HARTFORD — A benefit dance for the Van Buren county March of Dimes organization will be held Sunday, Feb. 29, at American Legion post 633 on Red Arrow highway here.

Harold (Curly) Sitter, program chairman, said the benefit is being sponsored by the post. All proceeds will go to the March of Dimes, he said.

A donation of $6 per person is being sought. The benefit will start at 7:30 p.m. Four bands are scheduled to provide music, Sitter said. Refreshments provided by the post's auxiliary will be available.

'EMPTINESS': A 20-ton rock balances atop a 23-foot stainless steel pillar in front of Shiki city hall north of Tokyo. Designed by vanguard artist Nobue Sekine, the work is called "Image of Emptiness". Sekine says it symbolizes one of the basic ideas of the Orient. (AP Wirephoto)

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Feb. 25, the 56th day of 1976. There are 310 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1793, the heads of the various U.S. government departments met with President George Washington at his home. It was the first recorded Cabinet meeting.

On this date: In 1570, Queen Elizabeth I of England was excommunicated by Pope Pius IV.

In 1793, Denmark recognized the independence of the United States.

In 1913, the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution went into effect, giving Congress the authority to levy income taxes.

In 1918, Oregon became the first state to tax gasoline.

In 1927, the people of the American Virgin Islands were granted U.S. citizenship.

In 1956, Nikita Khrushchev went before a Communist Party congress in Moscow and denounced the late Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin.

Ten years ago: More than one foot of snow blanketed the U.S. East Coast from North Carolina to New England, hampering air and highway traffic and forcing hundreds of schools to close.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon made a "State of the World" report and said that Communist aggression was falling in Southeast Asia.

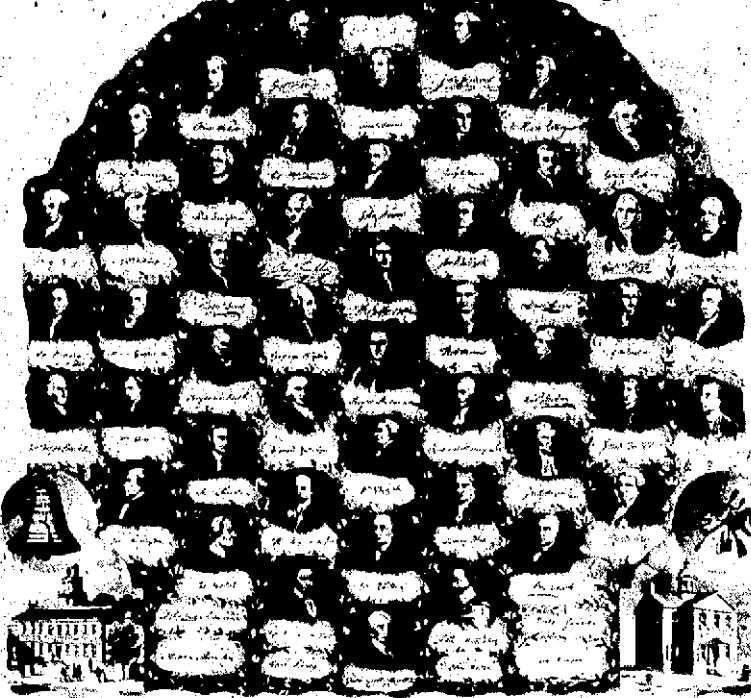

One year ago: President Ford warned that Cambodia would fall to the Communists if the U.S. Congress did not provide funds for the country's defense.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator John McClellan of Arkansas is 80 years old. Former Beale George Harrison is 33.

Thought for today: A hungry man is not a free man — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, in Cambridge, Mass., Gen. George Washington received a report from a Bostonian that the British had taken over every ship in the harbor of the occupied city.

Class of '76

Now there was a great bunch of guys. With an unheard-of revolutionary class gift. The Declaration of Independence. A document so powerful, it stirred a colonial people to take stock in a new idea: America.

And take stock, they did. By purchasing U.S. Government securities.

After all, we sure needed the money back then, and everyone knew it. But there were more than a few who wondered if this young, determined nation would pay it back.

Well, we did. Every last penny. With interest.

And it's the same today.

Maybe that's why now millions of Americans take stock in their country every payday by buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

You see, when you join the Payroll Savings Plan, a little is set aside from each paycheck to buy Bonds. There's just no easier way to save. And certainly no safer way.

So take a tip from the Class of 1776 and buy U.S. Savings Bonds. You'll be voted most likely to succeed.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Senate Debating DST Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is debating whether Daylight Saving Time should be extended to eight months, as it was last year, or whether it should run for six months or less.

Unless Congress acts, the country automatically goes back on six months of standard time and six months of DST. This means Daylight Saving now is set to run from April 25 to Oct. 31.

If Daylight Saving is extended to eight months under a bill before the Senate, it would run from March 7 to Nov. 14. The eight-month option — plus an additional week in November to avoid changing times in the last week of the presidential election campaign — is thought to have the edge in the Senate. But similar legislation is bottled up in the House Commerce Committee, leading some observers to doubt whether any bill can pass Congress this year.

Nixon in his toast talked about the Shanghai Communiqué he signed four years ago with the late Premier Chou Enlai and then commented: "There are, of course, some who believe that the mere act of signing a statement of principles or a diplomatic conference will bring instant and lasting peace. This is naive. There cannot and will not be lasting and secure peace until every nation in the world respects the security and independence of every other nation large or small."

Several State Department officials were angered by Nixon's comment, but both Kissinger and the White House said after reading the full text of the toast, they did not interpret it as a criticism.

Nixon also denied that when he applauded during a concert Monday night, he was clapping for a song calling for the ouster of the Nationalist Chinese regime from Taiwan. "Like hell I did," he said. "I didn't really stand. It was just a gentleman-to-a-lady gesture. I stood for a lady who was standing, not for the song."

Chiang Ching, the wife of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, sat at Nixon's left during the concert and directed his attention to an English translation of one song which said: "People of Taiwan, our own brothers, day and night, you are in our hearts. We are determined to liberate Taiwan Province and let the light of the sun shine on the island."

At the end of the song, Chiang Ching jumped to her feet applauding, and the other Chinese members of the official party also rose and clapped.

Nixon rose partially, applauding limply. Nixon on Tuesday afternoon had his third talk with Acting Premier Hua Kuo-feng and in the evening attended a small, informal dinner given by Hua in the Great Hall of the People.

Today, the chairman of the Revolutionary Committee of Tsinghua University, Chi Chuan, confirmed to Nixon that the man Chou En-lai picked to be his successor, First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, is once more in disgrace. Teng was purged during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution. Chou rehabilitated him as part of his campaign to end the turmoil, get government operations back on a smooth basis and resume industrial development. But after Chou's death, Teng became the target of a critical wall-poster campaign, and Hua was named acting premier.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Feb. 25, the 56th day of 1976. There are 310 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1793, the heads of the various U.S. government departments met with President George Washington at his home. It was the first recorded Cabinet meeting.

On this date: In 1570, Queen Elizabeth I of England was excommunicated by Pope Pius IV.

In 1783, Denmark recognized the independence of the United States.

In 1913, the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution went into effect, giving Congress the authority to levy income taxes.

In 1919, Oregon became the first state to tax gasoline.

In 1927, the people of the American Virgin Islands were granted U.S. citizenship.

In 1956, Nikita Khrushchev went before a Communist Party congress in Moscow and denounced the late Soviet dictator, Joseph Stalin.

Ten years ago: More than one foot of snow blanketed the U.S. East Coast from North Carolina to New England, hampering air and highway traffic and forcing hundreds of schools to close.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon made a "State of the World" report and said that Communist aggression was failing in Southeast Asia.

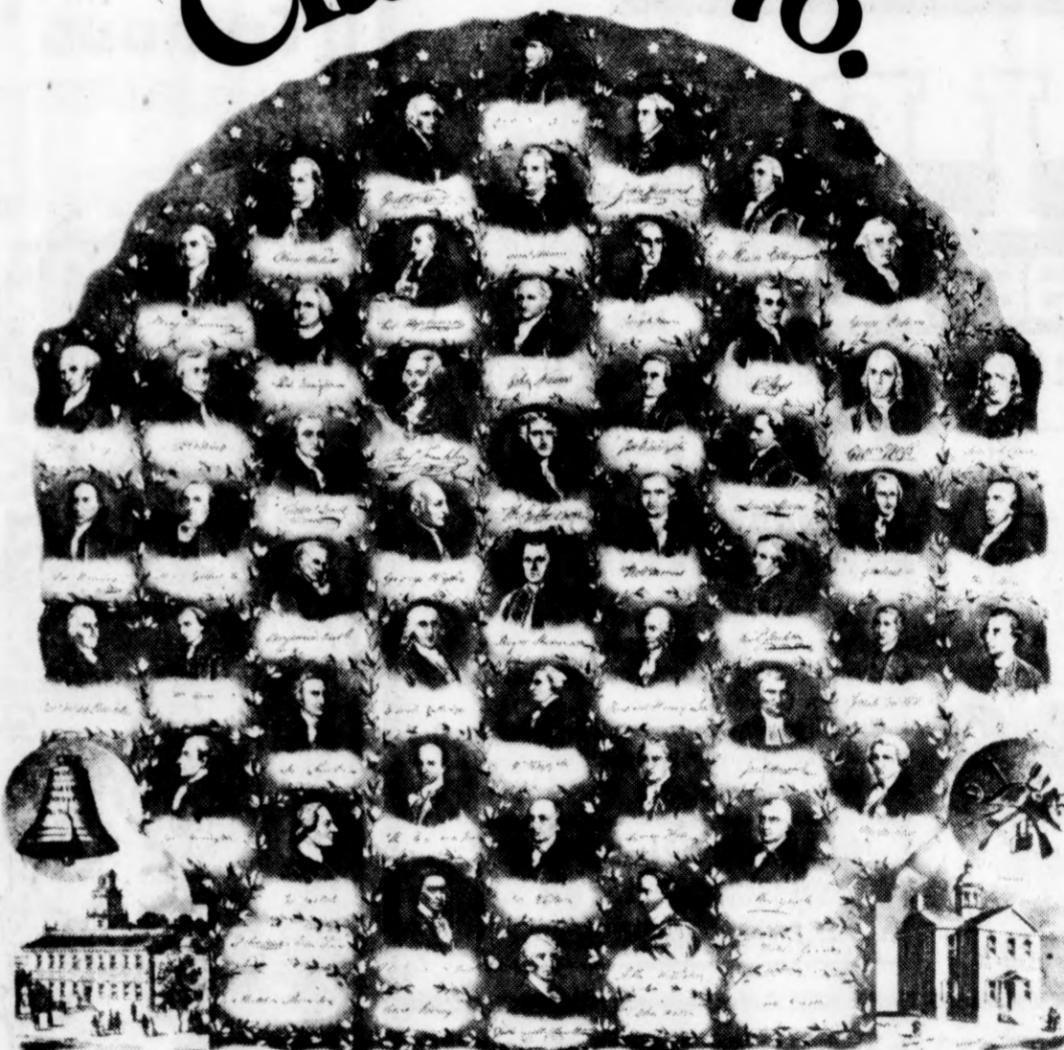

One year ago: President Ford warned that Cambodia would fall to the Communists if the U.S. Congress did not provide funds for the country's defense.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator John McClellan of Arkansas is 80 years old. Former Beatle George Harrison is 33.

Thought for today: A hungry man is not a free man — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, in Cambridge, Mass., Gen. George Washington received a report from a Bostonian that the British had taken over every ship in the harbor of the occupied city.

Class of '76

Now there was a great bunch of guys. With an unheard-of revolutionary class gift. The Declaration of Independence. A document so powerful, it stirred a colonial people to take stock in a new idea: America. And take stock they did. By purchasing U.S. Government securities. After all, we sure needed the money back then, and everyone knew it. But there were more than a few who wondered if this young, determined nation would pay it back. Well, we did. Every last penny. With interest. And it's the same today.

Maybe that's why now millions of Americans take stock in their country every payday by buying U.S. Savings Bonds. You see, when you join the Payroll Savings Plan, a little is set aside from each paycheck to buy Bonds. There's just no easier way to save. And certainly no safer way. So take a tip from the Class of 1776 and buy U.S. Savings Bonds. You'll be voted most likely to succeed.

Take stock in America.

LEADING ASSISTANCE: Dr. L.J. West, court-appointed psychiatrist in the Patricia Hearst case, picks up the lens that fell from a television cameraman's eyeglasses as he heads for the courtroom where he resumed testimony in the Hearst bank robbery case on Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Patty A 'Shattered' Survivor Of Ordeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was a confused young woman with "a variety of behaviors" and virtually no identity of her own in the weeks after her arrest, says a court-appointed psychiatrist.

Dr. L.J. West, a professor of psychiatry and an expert on prisoner of war torture, spent the entire day Tuesday on the witness stand at Miss Hearst's trial for bank robbery.

Ass't. U.S. Atty. David Bancroft, who repeatedly questioned West's interpretations of Miss Hearst's mental state, planned to continue his cross-examination today.

During direct questioning by defense counsel F. Lee Bailey, West portrayed Miss Hearst as a "shattered" survivor of a 19-month ordeal in the terrorist underground.

West said Tuesday that Miss Hearst, who had been given the name "Tania" by her Symphonie Liberation Army cap-tors after she proclaimed her allegiance to the terrorist band and took part in the bank robbery, became "Pearl" for much of her time in the underground.

Miss Hearst testified earlier that SLA member Emily Harris gave her the name "Pearl" after the May 17, 1974, shootout in which six SLA members died in Los Angeles.

West said the heiress had made a "remarkable improvement" in her condition in the past few months but still showed signs of anxiety and the fear for her life that characterized much of her own testimony.

West was one of three psychiatrists appointed by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter last fall to help determine whether Miss Hearst was competent to stand trial. He spent a total of 23 hours examining the 23-year-old defendant and was called as a witness for the defense.

Pending Legislation Could Cut Costs Of Air Travel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation pending in Congress to give airlines new freedom to raise and lower fares could cut the cost of air travel in half during off-peak hours on routes between 60 major cities, a report prepared for the Department of Transportation concludes.

However, the legislation might also result in higher air fares or less service on routes to small cities, the report found.

The report, prepared by the private consulting firm of Sinai, Helliesen and Eichner, reaches the same basic conclusions on the effects of decreased federal regulation as a recent Senate subcommittee report. Both studies are expected to give new impetus to the Ford administration's drive to give the nation's airlines more freedom to raise and lower fares and to start and stop service.

The consulting firm report, released Tuesday, said three intrastate airlines not regulated by the government make profits while offering fares far below those of interstate airlines regulated by the Civil Aeronautics Board. The three airlines were Southwest Airlines in Texas, and Pacific Southwest and Air California in California.

The report said the intrastate airlines were able to offer lower fares than airlines regulated by the CAB because state regulations penalize inefficient operations while federal regulations do not.

Fares approved by the CAB are set high enough to cover the average cost of all airlines flying the route, the report said. In contrast, the California and Texas fares are set high enough only to cover the cost of the most efficient airline flying the route, thus putting pressure on all airlines to become as efficient.

Southwest uses a two-tiered fare. For example, higher rates are charged between Dallas and Houston during peak business periods with a lower fare during slack periods and on weekends. This has led to a massive increase in air travel between cities served by Southwest, particularly by those who use off-peak fares, the report found. The Transportation Department issued samples showing interstate rates in use on Dec. 1 and fares that would be in effect if deregulation occurs and if Southwest's two-tiered approach is used.

The Dec. 1 fare between Boston and New York, for example, was $32. The department estimated that under the Southwest plan, the peak fare would drop to $26 and the offpeak fare to $18.

The Chicago-Detroit fare would drop from $36 to $29 in peak hours and to $18 in offpeak hours, the department estimated.

ed, and the Chicago-Kansas City fare would drop from $49 to $37 in peak hours and to $23 in off-peak hours.

Routes listed as having the characteristics for proposed reductions all are under 500 miles in length. Most connect large cities in the heavily populated East and Midwest.

As to the effect of deregulation on air service to small towns, the report said the predicted adverse impact could occur because lowering the cost of air service on major routes would keep airlines from using profits from those routes to subsidize unprofitable routes.

ANDREW J. HINSHAW
Conviction hurt
NEW JOB
WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph J. Sisco, undersecretary of state for political affairs, has resigned to become president of American University in Washington.

Convicted Congressman To Try For Re-Election

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Rep. Andrew J. Hinshaw, R-Calif., facing a term in prison for taking bribes, says his attorneys are rushing an appeal so he can run for re-election in California's June 8 primary.

Hinshaw, sentenced Tuesday to one to 14 years in prison, told reporters he wants to try to resolve the situation by election day.

He conceded his conviction Jan. 28 "severely hurt" his political career, but he added, "That doesn't mean I'm dead."

Hinshaw was convicted of accepting bribes while he was Orange County tax assessor. Judge Robert Kneeland, who sentenced the 51-year-old congressman, remarked, "If I was sitting in his shoes as a public official, I would expect a prison sentence."

Hinshaw, who is serving his second term in the House, was convicted on two counts of bribery for accepting gifts of stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Texas-based Tandy Corp. The conglomerate operates the Radio Shack electronic outlets among other enterprises. He was found innocent of soliciting bribes.

Hinshaw said after the sentencing that he was not surprised at the prison term.

Kneeland said he believed the verdict "was supported by evidence" but added, "I see no reason why the sentence should be beyond the minimum amount of time."

The congressman was released on his own recognizance pending appeal. If he loses the appeal and goes to prison he will be eligible for parole in a year, but how long he serves will be up to the California Adult Authority.

The prosecution contended that Hinshaw had denied Tandy a normally routine tax exemption but relented when the firm contributed to his campaign.

Next Monday, Hinshaw faces the start of a second trial on charges he abused the office of county assessor by employing county aides in political campaign roles.

India Clamps Down On Parenthood

By PAUL CHUTKOW
Associated Press Writer
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Acting to encourage sterilization, the Indian government has announced a plan to penalize government employees and Delhi residents who do not limit their families to two children.

The plan, similar to those the government is promoting in state assemblies across the country, also provides incentives to couples with one sterilized spouse or with one who has signed a pledge to undergo sterilization after having two children.

The penalties, which the government said would become effective "almost immediately," directly or indirectly curtail a couple's access to almost the entire range of government assistance — from government jobs and housing to loans, medical care, schools and drinking water.

The plan does not provide fines or imprisonment for couples who fail to comply, but legislation being drafted in other states does.

The West Bengal government is drafting a bill providing that if a couple has three children, one spouse has to be sterilized or face a fine, imprisonment or both.

The current birth rate in West Bengal is 38 per 1,000 population; the population is nearly 50 million, and a baby is born every 19 seconds.

About 22 million babies are now born annually in India, leading to an annual net population increase of 13 million. The population is now about 600 million, and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has said the government wants measures taken to prevent it from growing to a billion by 1991.

The system of penalties and incentives announced by the New Delhi administration is planned to what the government terms "an eligible couple" — a couple with less than two children who have given the sterilization pledge or a couple having two or more children but with one spouse sterilized.

Only families of eligible couples will get free treatment in the out-patient departments of government hospitals. Eligible couples will receive preferential consideration for government jobs, both permanent and part-time.

Threats Probed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Faced with reported death threats back home in Boston, Dr. Warren Justin Taylor has withdrawn as president-elect of the American College of Cardiology — a post he was to assume today.

In Boston, a newspaper reported Monday the FBI is trying to find out who has been sending anonymous death threats to "a large number" of Boston-area doctors — including Taylor — since last November.

Saluto's new "Deep-Dish Sicilian Style" pizza has a crust that is thick and tender all over...not just thick at the edge like Pizza Hut's Thick n' Chewy. That means Saluto gives you a thicker, tastier and more tender crust from the first bite to the last.

with at-home convenience

When you get that craving for a thick crust pizza, there's no waiting with Saluto. Saluto's new Deep-Dish pizza, available in your grocer's freezer, can be ready at home in less than 20 minutes. It usually takes that long just to drive to a Pizza Hut.

RETIRED JUDGE INDICTED: Former New York State Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Brust, right, waits with hands folded Tuesday as he is booked at a New York City police station on perjury charges. Conviction 'hurt'

NEW JOB
WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph J. Sisco, undersecretary of state for political affairs, has resigned to become president of American University in Washington.

Convicted Congressman To Try For Re-Election

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Rep. Andrew J. Hinshaw, R-Calif., facing a term in prison for taking bribes, says his attorneys are rushing an appeal so he can run for re-election in California's June 8 primary.

Hinshaw, sentenced Tuesday to one to 14 years in prison, told reporters he wants to try to resolve the situation by election day.

He conceded his conviction Jan. 26 "severely hurt" his political career, but he added, "That doesn't mean I'm dead."

Hinshaw was convicted of accepting bribes while he was Orange County tax assessor. Judge Robert Kneeland, who sentenced the 51-year-old congressman, remarked, "If I was sitting in his shoes as a public official, I would expect a prison sentence."

Hinshaw, who is serving his second term in the House, was convicted on two counts of bribery for accepting gifts of stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Texas-based Tandy Corp. The conglomerate operates the Radio Shack electronic outlets among other enterprises. He was found innocent of soliciting bribes.

Hinshaw said after the sentencing that he was not surprised at the prison term.

Kneeland said he believed the verdict "was supported by evidence" but added, "I see no reason why the sentence should

By PAUL CHUTKOW
Associated Press Writer
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Acting to encourage sterilization, the Indian government has announced a plan to penalize government employees and Delhi residents who do not limit their families to two children.

The plan, similar to those the government is promoting in state assemblies across the country, also provides incentives to couples with one sterilized spouse or with one who has signed a pledge to undergo sterilization after having two children.

The penalties, which the government said would become effective "almost immediately," directly or indirectly curtail a couple's access to almost the entire range of government assistance — from government jobs and housing to loans, medical care, schools and drinking water.

The plan does not provide fines or imprisonment for couples who fail to comply, but legislation being drafted in other states does.

The West Bengal government is drafting a bill providing that if a couple has three children, one spouse has to be sterilized or face a fine, imprisonment or both.

The current birth rate in West Bengal is 38 per 1,000 population; the population is nearly 50 million, and a baby is born every 19 seconds.

About 22 million babies are now born annually in India, leading to an annual net population increase of 13 million. The population is now about 600 million, and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has said the government wants measures taken to prevent it from growing to a billion by 1990.

The system of penalties and incentives announced by the New Delhi administration is pinned to what the government terms "an eligible couple" — a couple with less than two children who have given the sterilization pledge or a couple having two or more children but with one spouse sterilized.

Only families of eligible couples will get free treatment in the out-patient departments of government hospitals. Eligible couples will receive preferential consideration for government jobs, both permanent and part-time.

Threats Probed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Faced with reported death threats back home in Boston, Dr. Warren Justin Taylor has withdrawn as president-elect of the American College of Cardiology — a post he was to assume today.

In Boston, a newspaper reported Monday the FBI is trying to find out who has been sending anonymous death threats to "a large number" of Boston-area doctors — including Taylor — since last November.

Western Michigan Corp. Tells Management Changes

NILES — Several top management realignments were made at the February meetings of the board of directors of Western Michigan Corp., the Niles-based bank holding company, and its subsidiary First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan.

Donald F. Walter, president and chief executive officer of Western Michigan and First National, was named chairman and chief executive officer of the holding company and chairman, president and chief executive officer of the bank.

The office of president of Western Michigan Corp. was assumed by John T. Creden, formerly its secretary-treasurer. He will continue as an executive vice president of the bank.

Lemont A. Renterghem, vice president of Western Michigan, was promoted to executive vice president. He also continues as executive vice president of the bank.

James A. Cousins, vice president and corporate counsel for the bank, was promoted to senior vice president-corporate counsel and secretary of the bank and secretary of the holding company.

Samuel G. Creden, formerly chairman of the board of Western Michigan, announced his desire to step down as chairman. He will continue as a member of the board.

In explaining the realignment, Walter said John Creden, in his position as president of the holding company, will be responsible for its further expansion.

Renterghem's bank responsibilities will expand to include supervision of certain departments which previously reported to Creden. Walter's function as chief executive officer of both the bank and holding company has not changed.

Bands On Tap For Bicentennial

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien County Bicentennial Commission yesterday unveiled plans for appearances of two all-star bands to help celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

The commission also set up plans to welcome the La Salle expedition II, appoint a "first lady" of Berrien county and sell 1,000 American flags.

A Berrien county all-star band of 100 musicians is being organized by Dr. Donald K. Moely of Lake Michigan college. It will perform at the Bicentennial pageant July 21-24 at the Youth Fair Grounds in Berrien Springs.

The band will be composed of musicians from high school bands throughout the county. It will appear at New Buffalo for its harbor dedication in July. It will also be available for other appearances during the three weeks it will be organized. Communities with special events can request the band's appearance at a meeting March 9 at LMC.

Mrs. Robert Van Antwerp of St. Joseph said the all-star band being organized for the State of Michigan Bicentennial celebration will visit St. Joseph June 27 and 28. The band will join the St. Joseph municipal band in the John E.N. Howard bandshell on Sunday, June 27, and then give a concert Monday evening, June 28. The band will be housed in the homes of St. Joseph high school band members.

The all-star band for Michigan is being organized on a statewide basis and will rehearse at Olivet college before going on tour.

The La Salle Expedition II is a journey by 15 young men and six advisers in canoes tracing the 1681-82 trip by French explorer Sieur Robert La Salle from Montreal to New Orleans.

Jerry Johnson of Berrien Springs yesterday told the commission the group will paddle up the St. Joseph river around the second or third week of December. They will spend Christmas in South Bend, Ind., portage to the Kankakee river and eventually float down the Mississippi river to New Orleans.

Mrs. Frank V. Cupp of Shoreland disclosed plans to name a "first lady" to preside over some Bicentennial festivities. The "first lady" may be a mother or grandmother and the committee making the selection will weigh historical background and contribution to community affairs in making the selection.

Mrs. Van Antwerp said the 3 by 5-foot American flags have been purchased through Tom Hurren, St. Joseph flag dealer. She said service clubs plan a sales canvass of the Twin Cities "so every home will have a flag." Orders for flags may be made through the Bicentennial commission.

Other events at the meeting yesterday:

It was announced that the Berrien Bicentennial history book will be ready for distribution about April 1. Paul McAdams of St. Joseph said the $10,000 book, financed by sponsors, contains a complete history of Berrien county with scores of illustrations. He said top salesmen of sponsorships were Mrs. Thomas Adams, St. Joseph; Ray Green, Niles; Barney Yasdek, Stevensville and Mrs. Albert Reschke, Eau Claire.

Social Security Hike 'Dead'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's plan to raise Social Security taxes by as much as $1 a week per worker apparently is dead, a victim of the battle between Congress and the White House over economic policy.

The Senate Finance Committee's action rejecting Ford's proposal came as no surprise. And while the decision could be reversed by the Senate and the House, the prospect in this election year is unlikely.

Without a formal vote, the Finance Committee agreed Tuesday that its spending and tax plans for 1977 would not include an increase in Social Security payroll deductions. The panel delayed until later this year a decision on whether money should be taken from elsewhere in the federal budget to pump up the Social Security system.

Charlie Field of LMC presented a packet of seeds to Dr. A.S. Mowery, commission director, from a tulip poplar tree "born" in 1776 and transplanted by Washington in 1785 at Mount Vernon. Another packet of seeds went to the college. Those interested in getting seeds can write to the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union, Mount Vernon, Va. 22121. Packets are 50 cents.

Ford And Carter Are Victorious In New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Ford edged out Ronald Reagan in New Hampshire's leadoff primary, and Jimmy Carter strengthened his claim to frontrunner status with a comfortable triumph in the crowded Democratic field. With 97 per cent of the votes counted in what had been a night-long seesaw race, Ford had 54,645 or 51 per cent to Reagan's 53,438 or 49 per cent.

Former Georgia Gov. Carter defeated four major candidates on Tuesday's Democratic ballot, gaining 30 per cent of the vote. Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall was second with 24 per cent and Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh was third with 16 per cent.

Ford said today his victory in the New Hampshire primary is "a great springboard" to the Republican nomination and to victory in the November presidential election.

"If we win a couple more, and I think we will, we'll be ready for the finals, and I think we'll win there, too," Ford told a meeting of his senior staff at the White House.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said New Hampshire was Reagan's "best state in the North. He went all out in campaigning ... He gave it his best shot and couldn't win it."

But a tired Reagan told a postmidnight news conference before the final results were in that "I feel what's happened tonight is a victory." He claimed at least a moral victory compared with his stated pre-election goal of 40 per cent of the vote.

Commenting on Reagan's claim that his 49 per cent was actually a victory, presidential adviser Rogers Morton said:

"There seems to be a lot of rhetoric about the advantages of coming in second in this primary ... I heard the Democratic candidates say they achieved all their goals when they ran second and third," Morton said on NBC's "Today" show. "This is a new politics. I've always felt that it's better to win."

Carter, who like Reagan waged a campaign against the Washington establishment, flashed a victory sign in cheering supporters in a Manchester hotel ballroom and declared he would win the Democratic nomination on the first ballot.

Appearing on the "Today" show, Carter said today that he was satisfied with the outcome in New Hampshire.

"We were hoping to come in first or second. I thought we would for the last month or two. This is a good indication that in New England I can do well."

Carter said he would run an active campaign in advance of the March 2 Massachusetts primary. But, in an interview on the CBS "Morning News," said opposition from Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will provide the "big test" for him when the two Southerners meet in the Florida primary on March 9.

Carter said Wallace must do as well in Florida as he did in 1972 when he won the primary. Carter added, "I'm convinced and determined that he will not do as well in '76 as he did in '72."

Like Carter, Udall had campaigned in New Hampshire for more than a year. Udall said his showing vaulted him to the front of the liberal pack.

and Kellogg has one, from their prior marriages.

The children of Mrs. Stark and Mrs. Rampey are Diane Stark, 13, Dale Stark, 12, and David Rampey, 8, and Denise Rampey, 4.

Both women reside in modern homes, Mrs. Rampey in Three Oaks and Mrs. Stark in Harbert, homes they've paid for with insurance money they received following their husbands' deaths.

Mrs. Rampey said she and Minzghor met June 18, 1974, when she came into the state police post at New Buffalo. She said they've been dating ever since. She said her two children "just love Bill," and in fact her young daughter (who was only five months old when her father was killed) keeps asking her "When can I call Bill daddy, instead of Mr. Minzghor?"

Mrs. Rampey said she has no second thoughts about marrying another police officer, but fully realizes the circumstances.

Mrs. Stark said she and Kellogg met June 23, 1973, when she came into the service garage to pick up her car, and, they, too, have been dating ever since. She said her children were old enough to realize why they had lost their father, but in the past few years "have come to realize what Harvey's meant to us and love him."

Since the tragedy over four years ago, the two young mothers have become quite close to each other. Due to their close relationship, the women's fiancés have also become close friends.

"It just seems like we're always doing things together, so why not get married together?" Mrs. Rampey said. "As our minister says, it's really going to be a family affair."

Following the wedding, the new Mr. and Mrs. Minzghor and the new Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg plan to honeymoon together without the children in Acapulco, Mexico.

Both women said they never doubted they would eventually get married again, but knew finding "Mr. Right" could take a while.

Both agreed that being alone was something "we just had to live with and become adjusted to," Mrs. Stark said. "Our homes and children certainly helped keep us busy," she said. "And our so many good friends were always there when we needed them, especially Lt. Neil Bengert, New Buffalo post commander," Mrs. Rampey said.

Troopers Stark and Rampey were shot to death after stopping a car for an apparent routine traffic check near Union Pier, during the early morning hours of Dec. 31, 1971.

One of the two occupants of the car, Johnnie William Croxton, of Tennessee, was slain by other officers after a high speed chase into an isolated area 1½ miles north of where the two officers were gunned down.

A woman occupant in the auto, Dorothy Pearl Briz, of Inkster, was initially charged with murder, but the case against her never made it to trial, as the late District Court Judge Paul Pollard, ruled there was not enough evidence. His ruling was subsequently upheld by Circuit Judge Julian Hughes.

Some 40 police officers from several Berrien county law enforcement agencies were on the scene soon after and Watkins was quickly removed to a waiting ambulance and taken to the hospital.

Gunfire was exchanged by officers and occupants of the car early in the vigil and before it was learned hostages were inside, and shots were fired from the car several times during the two-hour watch.

About 12:30 a.m. the older sister, Mrs. Merrifield, was apparently released from the car unharmed, reportedly to bargain with police. It was at that time police learned that there was another hostage, Miss Gleason, being held in the car.

Mrs. Merrifield called to the occupants of the car over a

Police Suspect Drugs Sold At Slaying Scene

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Drugs apparently were being sold from a Southfield apartment where three men and an infant girl were murdered, police said Tuesday.

Officers said less than an ounce of white powder suspected of being heroin was found in the apartment, which is in a modest terrace complex.

Victims in Monday's shooting were identified Tuesday as Rinald R. Brown, 22, of Detroit, and his daughter, Andrea, 2; Theodore Nelson, 25, and Floyd A. McElhannon, 32. Police said all four were shot in the head with a pistol and were lying on the living room floor.

Saturday Night Specials Banned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three main gun control proposals in Congress now contain a provision that would ban "Saturday night specials," cheap handguns blamed for many of the mayhem caused by firearms.

The House Judiciary Committee approved a ban on the "Saturday night specials" on Tuesday, clearing up the last major difference between the House measure and proposals in the Senate and by the Ford administration.

police loudspeaker, pleading for them to "give yourselves up." She also said "the reason you let me out was so that everybody could get out. My sister is in there...they've promised not to shoot."

She used the name "Al" during her plea over the loudspeaker. Immoos said she told officers she heard that name during the ride from Kalamazoo, but did not know which man was Al and said no other names were used.

Spotlights from police cars were trained on the overturned vehicle during the two-hour stand-off.

Before Mrs. Merrifield was freed, police were unaware the women were hostages and some sporadic gunfire was exchanged. Police said they did not learn immediately the source of the bullet that wounded Miss Gleason. Officers urged the occupants to "throw out your guns, we won't shoot, but you have to show us your guns first."

At about 2 a.m., Sheriff Jewell ordered tear gas to be shot into the overturned car, Immoos said when the first tear gas canister was fired, two shots were heard from within the auto, apparently the two fatal shots.

Miss Gleason crawled part-way from the car as the tear-gas began to engulf the car, screaming to officers, "Get me out of here, they shot themselves, they're dead." Police held back urging her to pull herself free, saying they wanted to believe her but feared more shooting.

Tear gas canisters started a small fire near the car, but it was put out with fire extinguishers as officers cautiously moved toward the car, their guns at the ready. When it began apparent there would be no more shooting, officers rushed to help the young woman.

One of the men had $81 in cash clutched in his hand, Immoos said. He reported the two young women told officers the money had been taken from them when they were first abducted.

Immoos said both women were in a state of shock and were unable to be questioned after the incident. He said there were many questions and the investigation was continuing.

Ford And Carter Are Victorious In New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Ford edged out Ronald Reagan in New Hampshire's leadoff primary, and Jimmy Carter strengthened his claim to frontrunner status with a comfortable triumph in the crowded Democratic field. With 97 per cent of the votes counted in what had been a night-long seesaw race, Ford had 54.645 or 51 per cent to Reagan's 33.438 or 49 per cent.

Former Georgia Gov. Carter defeated four major candidates on Tuesday's Democratic ballot, gaining 30 per cent of the vote. Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall was second with 24 per cent and Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh was third with 16 per cent.

Ford said today his victory in the New Hampshire primary is "a great springboard" to the Republican nomination and to victory in the November presidential election.

"If we win a couple more, and I think we will, we'll be ready for the finals, and I think we'll win there, too," Ford told a meeting of his senior staff at the White House.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said New Hampshire was Reagan's "best state in the North. He went all out in campaigning ... He gave it his best shot and couldn't win it."

But a tired Reagan told a postmidnight news conference before the final results were in that "I feel what's happened tonight is a victory." He claimed at least a moral victory compared with his stated pre-election goal of 40 per cent of the vote.

Commenting on Reagan's claim that his 49 per cent was actually a victory, presidential adviser Rogers Morton said:

"There seems to be a lot of rhetoric about the advantages of coming in second in this primary ... I heard the Democratic candidates say they achieved all their goals when they ran second and third," Morton said on NBC's "Today" show. "This is a new politics. I've always felt that it's was better to win."

Carter, who like Reagan waged a campaign against the Washington establishment, flashed a victory sign to cheering supporters in a Manchester hotel ballroom and declared he would win the Democratic nomination on the first ballot.

Appearing on the "Today" show, Carter said today that he was satisfied with the outcome in New Hampshire.

"We were hoping to come in first or second. I thought we would for the last month or two. This is a good indication that in New England I can do well."

Carter said he would run an active campaign in advance of the March 2 Massachusetts primary. But, in an interview on the CBS "Morning News," said opposition from Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will provide the "big test" for him when the two Southerners meet in the Florida primary on March 9.

Carter said Wallace must do as well in Florida as he did in 1972 when he won the primary. Carter added, "I'm convinced and determined that he will not do as well in '76 as he did in '72."

Like Carter, Udall had campaigned in New Hampshire for more than a year. Udall said his showing vaulted him to the front of the liberal pack.

Neil Bement, New Buffalo post commander," Mrs. Rumpy said.

Troopers Stark and Rumpy were shot to death after stopping a car for an apparent routine traffic check near Union Pier, during the early morning hours of Dec. 31, 1971.

One of the two occupants of the car, Johnnie William Croxton, of Tennessee, was slain by other officers after a high speed chase into an isolated area 1½ miles north of where the two officers were gunned down.

A woman occupant in the auto, Dorothy Pearl Broz, of Inkster, was initially charged with murder, but the case against her never made it to trial, as the late District Court Judge Paul Pollard, ruled there was not enough evidence. His ruling was subsequently upheld by Circuit Judge Julian Hughes.

Special Education Wins In Van Buren

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau

LAWRENCE — Two special education funding proposals were approved by substantial margins yesterday by Van Buren intermediate school district voters.

A 1.5 mill property tax levy for special education programs was approved by a 3,386 to 2,679 margin, according to unofficial returns, and a $1,010,000 bond issue to build and equip a school for the handicapped won by an unofficial difference of 3,269 to 2,763. Bert Goens, director of special education for the intermediate school district said he viewed the results as "a vote of confidence in the handicapped by the people of the county."

"The parents advisory committee and the special education staff all worked very hard," he added.

The vote on both issues had been expected to be very close, but each passed going away, led by "yes" vote margins of better than 2-1 in the Paw Paw district.

Both proposals had been defeated last June. Goens attributed the turnaround to a much better job of publicizing the need for the funds.

The 1.5 mill increase is expected to generate about $450,000 and will be used to hire 45 additional staff people and to purchase additional buses for transporting the handicapped.

School officials have said that the bond issue will require up to a half-mill levy not more than 10 years to finance repayment.

The new school for the trainable will replace five portable classroom units and the old Arlington township hall which are now being used for educating the handicapped, and will be located on a 35-acre site southeast of the present intermediate district offices at Lawrence.

Goens said the 25,500 square foot facility will house up to 125 students, and could be completed by January, 1977 barring unforeseen difficulties.

The 1.5 mill levy passed yesterday in every school system except the Bloomingdale, Hartford, South Haven, and Wood districts. The bond issue lost in Bloomingdale, Decatur, Hartford, and South Haven.

Following are the district breakdowns on the 1.5 mill levy, with "yes" votes first: Bangor, 389-310; Bloomingdale, 170-204; Covert, 67-51; Decatur, 186-161; Gobles, 135-91; Hartford, 157-211; Lawrence, 239-186; Lawton, 190-124; Mattawan, 687-505; Paw Paw, 714-299; South Haven, 467-539; and Wood, 15-18.

On the bond issue, with "yes" votes listed first, the results were: Bangor, 348-332; Bloomingdale, 161-212; Covert, 69-47; Decatur, 163-165; Gobles, 128-101; Hartford, 151-217; Lawrence, 264-100; Lawton, 188-129; Mattawan, 631-553; Paw Paw, 716-292; South Haven, 465-539; and Wood, 17-16.

COLOMA — Dr. Harold F. Koch, an osteopathic physician here, has ended his Coloma practice after pleading guilty to a federal charge of illegally dispensing drugs.

Dr. Koch, 42, in late December pleaded guilty in U.S. District court in Grand Rapids to one of 13 counts charging him with dispensing controlled drugs without working up a medical history or examining patients for whom the drugs were intended.

No date for sentencing has been set, according to federal court officials. Conviction of the charge carries a maximum penalty of $15,000 fine and/or five years in prison.

Specifically, he pleaded guilty to a charge of knowingly and willfully dispensing illegally a controlled drug, Eskalor, an amphetamine-related drug.

The other counts in the indictment allege illegal dispensing of similar drugs between November, 1973, and April, 1974, according to Robert Green, an assistant federal attorney.

Earlier this month, Dr. Koch posted in his office-home at 460 Paw Paw, Coloma, a sign saying he had stopped practice and that medical charts could be obtained for referral to other physicians.

Dr. Koch has been unavailable for comment.

The suspensions were for dispensing drugs without giving proper medical examinations to patients to receive the drugs, spokesmen for both state boards have previously said.

Charges were brought against Dr. Koch after an investigation by the Division Investigation Unit (DIU), a joint federal-state team in the state's department of licensing and regulation.

When it was determined Dr. Koch was not in violation of applicable state laws, he was charged under federal statutes, a spokesman at the U.S. attorney's office said.

Dr. Koch opened his Coloma practice in 1972, coming to the community from Galien where he had practiced since 1961.

In May, 1972, he was elected to a one-year term as president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Mathews of West Portsmouth, Ohio, wrote of their experience and extended their thanks to the Furlans in a letter to the North Berrien County Chamber of Commerce. Involved was $325 in cash, in addition to the credit cards and personal papers.

The return began when Mrs. Furlan saw money flying in the air, coming from a car ahead, as she and her husband drove on Highway 27 near Lake Placid, Fla.

After gathering all the money, personal papers, credit cards and photographs from along the highway, the Furlans undertook finding the owner.

From Bonita Springs, Fla., the Furlans called the Ohio residence, and after two calls, obtained a telephone number for where the Mathews were staying at a motel in Ochopee, Fla.

A call to the motel, and a 20-minute wait in a phone booth for return call from the Mathews ended the search.

The following day, Sunday, Jan. 4, the Mathews traveled from Ochopee to Bonita Springs, a distance of about 40 miles where the Furlans returned the items, the Furlans said.

Furlan refused a reward, but Mrs. Mathews insisted that Mrs. Furlan take a $50 reward for retrieving the items and returning them.

In the letter to the chamber, Mrs. Mathews wrote the wallet was lost when she became ill, and after purchasing some medicine, left her billfold on top of the auto.

According to the Mathews letter, they traveled several miles before the billfold fell off the car.

"A very honest couple," Mr.

and Mrs. William Furlan from your town found the items on the highway, with the items blowing everywhere, wrote the Mathews in the letter to the chamber.

"This fine couple collected all of the blown items and took on the major task of finding us," continued the letter.

The Mathews concluded their letter to the chamber by writing, "In this day with so much crime and all, we think these two fine people need to be recognized."

Furlan retired from Auto Specialties, St. Joseph, at the first of the year, after being employed there for 35 years. He was a foreman in the hydraulic department. Mrs. (Jane) Furlan is a housewife.

State Fund Cutbacks May Force V.B. Hospital To Borrow Money

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Cutbacks in Medicaid payments ordered by Gov. Milliken may force Lake View Community hospital here to begin borrowing to meet payroll, a hospital official told the Van Buren county board of commissioners last night.

Waldo Dick, a member of the hospital's board and former county commissioner, said Gov.

Milliken has ordered that all Medicaid payments for extended care facilities be frozen at 1974-75 levels. At Lake View's extended care facility, this could mean a $19,000 to $20,000 deficit in the coming year, Dick said.

In addition, the state has imposed a $4,600 per week ceiling on Medicaid payments to the hospital's acute care facility, Dick said, despite the fact that bills in the past have run up to $23,000 per week.

Dick appealed to commissioners for help in getting the state to increase payments, noting that Bronson and Borgess hospitals in Kalamazoo have already started to borrow money to meet expenses, and that South Haven Community hospital faces a similar situation.

Commissioner George Fritz remarked that it may take some sort of crisis to awaken people to the fact that steps must be taken to hold the line on Medicaid costs, noting that the county now pays some $14,000 in malpractice insurance alone annually.

Dick was instructed to meet with the board's administrative affairs committee next week to see if some type of action can be taken.

In other areas, commissioners passed a resolution asking the state to drop funding of the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance project, calling it a "needless waste of taxpayers' money" and a duplication of existing state services.

Headquartered in Berrien Springs, the project provides legal assistance to migrants and other low-income families. The resolution said it has been guilty of "harrassing" farmers with needless lawsuits, and that its function was already handled by the state attorney general's office, and state health and labor departments.

Commissioners also supported a Michigan Association of Counties resolution calling upon the state to either reimburse counties for the cost of the May 18 presidential primary or do away with it altogether. The county's share of the election was put at $2,631, and the statewide figure at over $3 million.

Also approved were the appointment of Anita Green of Decatur as an alternate on the county board of canvassers, and a contract with the All Waste Disposal Removal service to collect trash from the county courthouse, jail, and juvenile home at a rate of $25 per month.

Commissioner Walter Sticksels also urged members of the county transportation authority to do a better job of explaining the reasons behind a proposed bus service for the handicapped

Sawyer Man Expected To Be Appointed Berrien Drain Chief

It appears that Berrien County Commissioner Carl Gnodtke of Sawyer will be appointed county drain commissioner this week.

Although county officials have not yet made public their selection, announcement of Gnodtke's appointment is expected to be made Thursday morning at a special meeting of the Berrien county board of commissioners.

The meeting, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in the county courthouse, has been called to consider what County Clerk Forrest H. Kesterke called "appointments and vacancies."

If Gnodtke is appointed drain commissioner, he would have to resign his seat on the county commission and the remaining members of the county commission would have to appoint a person to fill the vacancy.

Appointment of the drain commissioner is made by the county clerk, county prosecutor and presiding probate court judge.

The county has been without a drain commissioner since Jan. 1, when the late Harry Nye died when pinned beneath the wheels of a tractor he apparently was trying to start at his home in Royall township.

Former Buchanan township Supervisor Ivan Price was selected to fill the unexpired term earlier this month, but refused the post after a $13,865 federal tax lien was filed against him.

If Gnodtke is appointed drain commissioner, both he and his successor on the county commission would have to run for election this year to retain those positions.

Gnodtke, a Republican, represents New Buffalo city and township, Three Oaks and Wexsaw townships, and part of Chikaming township on the county commission.

Spring Training Debate Resumes

From Associated Press
The National League owners have taken a giant step towards keeping major league baseball in San Francisco this season, if and when the season ever gets started.

The owners, meeting for over 48 hours in Chicago Tuesday, voted to approve the sale of the financially-troubled Giants to a group headed by San Francisco financier Robert Lurie and former Texas Rangers owner Bob Short.

"We'll keep the Giants in San Francisco" forever," pledged Lurie. "If not, I wouldn't be bidding for the team. We have new ideas and promotions. I am willing to say right now that if we get the club, we'll double the attendance next season."

Assuming that season ever gets underway, Marvin Miller, head of the Players Association, was to meet with an owners committee in Philadelphia today to try to make some progress towards settling their dispute, which centers on the controversial reserve clause.

After a similar session in New York Monday, presidents Lee MacPhail of the American League and Chub Feeney of the National League said the differences between the owners and players over the reserve clause were too great to open the spring training camps as scheduled. The owners' player relations committee also expressed a willingness to forego the regular season, if necessary.

The sale of the Giants for $8 million — Lurie would own 50 per cent, Short 25 per cent and a Minneapolis conglomerate, 25 per cent — was approved with the proviso that certain conditions involving both the purchasers and the city of San Francisco are met by March 1.

Feeney said if the conditions — which were not disclosed — are not fulfilled, the National League owners would meet again on the Giants matter. A Toronto group has bid a reported $12.25 million for the team, but about $5 million of that would go towards legal fees should the city of San Francisco sue to keep the team from moving to Canada.

Feeney said the Giants' sale was the only topic of discussion at the Chicago meeting, but added that the National League would meet again soon to discuss expansion.

That came on the heels of a report from Washington that M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets and chairman of the major leagues' franchise committee, was urging his fellow owners to vote for immediate expansion to Washington.

The report, in Tuesday's edition of the Washington Star, said Grant had met with certain National League owners Monday night in Chicago in an effort to persuade them to keep the Giants in San Francisco and expand into Washington and Toronto.

Maloney Will Stand Trial

TORONTO (AP) — A National Hockey League referee gave Dan Maloney of the Detroit Red Wings a five-minute penalty last Nov. 5 when the big left wing slapped Toronto defenseman Brian Glennie. A Toronto judge and jury could wind up giving him five years.

For striking Glennie and knocking him to the ice during the Maple Leafs' 7-3 victory, the 25-year-old Maloney will stand trial on a charge of assault causing bodily harm, Provincial Court Judge Aaron Brown ruled Tuesday.

A trial date will be set April 5, the day after the NHL regular season ends. Maloney, the fourth NHL player to face criminal prosecution for excessive roughness during a game, faces a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

"In my respectful view," said Judge Brown, "it is both good law and good sense that the force and effect of the criminal law should apply equally and evenly inside and outside the sporting arena."

Maloney was released in his own recognizance pending the trial. NHL President Clarence Campbell said from his Montreal office that the league wouldn't intervene in the case.

In a preliminary hearing earlier this month, Maloney entered a plea of innocent to the charge, which had been filed the day after the game by Ohio Attorney General Roy McMurtry. Only a week earlier, McMurtry had warned he would take steps to curb violence in hockey games.

In the game, Glennie checked Brian Hextall, then with Detroit. Maloney allegedly then hit Glennie in the face and knocked him to the ice, picked him up by the sweater and dropped him several times. Glennie, 29, was hospitalized for 12 hours with temporary amnesia and a slight concussion.

In 1969, Ted Green of the Boston Bruins and the late Wayne Maki of St. Louis engaged in a stick fight during an exhibition game in Ottawa. They were tried separately on assault charges and each was acquitted.

Last year, Boston's Dave Forbes was charged with aggravated assault after he struck Minnesota's Henry Boucha in the eye with his stick during a Jan. 4 game in Bloomington, Minn. The charge was dropped after Forbes' trial ended in a hung jury.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Mike Marshall was arrested Tuesday for hitting a baseball without a permit in the Michigan State University Intramural Building.

Campus police officials said they were summoned to the building after tennis-playing students and faculty members complained Marshall's use of a nearby hitting and pitching area disrupted their games.

The hitting-pitching net is situated on baseball and tennis cannot be played simultaneously without disruption, MSU officials said.

"The subject disrupted normal activities, to wit tennis, by hitting a baseball," explained Maj. Adam Zataut, campus uniformed police commander.

All persons who want to use the facilities must reserve space first, said Frank Beeman, intramural director.

Until last Monday, special time slots were reserved automatically for Marshall to practice two days a week, but the area has been in growing demand so the special privilege was withdrawn, according to Beeman.

Marshall knew long ago his special privilege was being withdrawn, Beeman said.

Campus police said the 33-year-old Cy Young Award winner refused to leave unless they drove Marshall to headquarters and booked, fingerprinted and photographed him before releasing him without bond.

A warrant will be sought charging him with disrupting the normal use of a campus area which was assigned through appropriate channels for other educational or extracurricular activities, said Zataut. The misdemeanor carries a maximum $100 fine and 90 days in jail upon conviction.

Marshall, who is working toward a Ph.D. in physiology at MSU, claimed in a telephone interview that the school reneged on an agreement three years ago to clear up permanently the clash between tennis and baseball practice in the building.

"You can listen to administration mumbo-jumbo if you want, but the answer is simple — they do not want Mike Marshall to use the facility," he said.

Beeman, who calls police, said, "If there was an error, it was probably letting him use the area for so long without reserving it. Other people had the tennis court reserved when he came in."

Bernie Parent is back — but is that really him?

Parent was greeted with a standing ovation from the crowd at the Capital Centre when he skated to the Philadelphia Flyers' nets for the first time in 10 months. But the goalie who played Tuesday night was just a shadow of the netminder who blanked the explosive Buffalo Sabres 2-0 in the last game of the Stanley Cup finals back on May 28.

"It felt good to be back, but I know I'm not in condition now and not really ready to play," said Parent following the 5-5 tie between the Flyers and the Washington Capitals. The lowly Caps managed just 19 shots on goal, but five of them eluded Parent.

With 5½ weeks remaining in the regular season, Parent's goal is to play his way into top form for the playoffs.

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League Tuesday night, it was New York Islanders 7, Minnesota 1; Montreal 6, St. Louis 2; and Chicago 4, Vancouver 1.

In the World Hockey Association, it was Quebec 4, Houston 1; Cincinnati 2, Toronto 6; and Calgary 3, Edmonton 3, tie.

Former Flyer Bob Sirois scored two goals for Washington, which jumped out to a 3-0 lead against Parent on goals by Ron Lalonde, Sirois and Hartland Monahan.

The Flyers tied the score on goals by Dave Schultz, Drest Kindrachuk and Gary Dornhoefer, then went ahead on Reggie Leach's 4th goal of the season, at 8:53 of the final period.

The Capitals came right back 32 seconds later, tying the score on a goal by defenseman Pete Scamurra. Sirois' power play goal put Washington ahead at 12:56, but Tim Blanton salvaged a tie for the Flyers with a goal at 14:37.

Denis Potvin scored two first-period goals and later added three assists to power the Islanders past Minnesota. Ed Westfall also scored twice for the Islanders, reaching the 30-goal plateau for his career.

Steve Shutt scored twice and Guy Lafleur raised his NHL-leading point total to 90 with a goal and two assists for Montreal.

Chicago moved six points ahead of Vancouver in the Smythe Division, helped by second-period goals by John Marks and Ivan Boldirev.

Marc Turfiff scored his 55th and 56th goals of the season and added one assist to pace Quebec's triumph. He leads the WHA in scoring with 112 points.

Murray Myers scored three goals and Dennis Sobchuk added two goals and three assists as Cincinnati outscored Toronto before a crowd of 5,004, the Tories' lowest attendance ever at Mopac Leaf Gardens.

The Tories are now winless in their last 16 games, a WHA record.

Steve Hull's goal at 16:32 of the third period gave Calgary the tie. Edmonton goalie Dave Dryden made 42 saves, but bobbed a soft shot to set up the tying goal.

Dickerson is the second Subbras player signed by the Pistons: Last week, Roger Brown, a 6-foot-11 backup center, was added to the roster and rookie Lindsay Hairston was cut.

Spring Training Debate Resumes

From Associated Press
The National League owners have taken a giant step towards keeping major league baseball in San Francisco this season, if and when the season ever gets started.

The owners, meeting for over four hours in Chicago Tuesday, voted to approve the sale of the financially-troubled Giants to a group headed by San Francisco financier Robert Lurie and former Texas Rangers owner Bob Short.

"We'll keep the Giants in San Francisco forever," pledged Lurie. "If not, I wouldn't be bidding for the team. We have new ideas and promotions. I am willing to say right now that if we get the club, we'll double the attendance next season."

Assuming that season ever gets underway, Marvin Miller, head of the Players Association, was to meet with an owners' committee in Philadelphia today to try to make some progress towards settling their dispute, which centers on the controversial reserve clause.

After a similar session in New York Monday, presidents Lee MacPhail of the American League and Chub Feeney of the National League said the differences between the owners and players over the reserve clause were too great to open the spring training camps as scheduled. The owners' player relations committee also expressed a willingness to forego the regular season, if necessary.

The sale of the Giants for $8 million — Lurie would own 50 per cent, Short 25 per cent and a Minneapolis conglomerate 25 per cent — was approved with the proviso that certain conditions involving both the purchasers and the city of San Francisco are met by March 1.

Feeney said if the conditions — which were not disclosed — are not fulfilled, the National League owners would meet again on the Giants matter. A Toronto group has bid a reported $13.25 million for the team, but about $5 million of that would go towards legal fees should the city of San Francisco sue to keep the team from moving to Canada.

Feeney said the Giants' sale was the only topic of discussion at the Chicago meeting, but added that the National League would meet again soon to discuss expansion.

That came on the heels of a report from Washington that M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets and chairman of the major leagues' franchise committee, was urging his fellow owners to vote for immediate expansion to Washington.

The report, in Tuesday's edition of the Washington Star, said Grant had met with certain National League owners Monday night in Chicago in an effort to persuade them to keep the Giants in San Francisco and expand into Washington and Toronto.

DAN MALONEY

Maloney Will Stand Trial

TORONTO (AP) — A National Hockey League referee gave Dan Maloney of the Detroit Red Wings a five-minute penalty last Nov. 5 when the big left wing slugged Toronto defenseman Brian Glennie. A Toronto judge and jury could wind up giving him five years.

For striking Glennie and knocking him to the ice during the Maple Leafs' 7-3 victory, the 25-year-old Maloney will stand trial on a charge of assault causing bodily harm, Provincial Court Judge Aaron Brown ruled Tuesday.

A trial date will be set April 5, the day after the NHL regular season ends. Maloney, the fourth NHL player to face criminal prosecution for excessive roughness during a game, faces a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

"In my respectful view," said Judge Brown, "it is both good law and good sense that the force and effect of the criminal law should apply equally and evenly inside and outside the sporting arena."

Maloney was released in his own recognizance pending the trial. NHL President Clarence Campbell said from his Montreal office that the league wouldn't intervene in the case.

In a preliminary hearing earlier this month, Maloney entered a plea of innocent to the charge, which had been filed the day after the game by Orio Attorney General Roy McMurtry. Only a week earlier, McMurtry had warned he would take steps to curb violence in hockey games.

In the game, Glennie checked Brian Hextall, then with Detroit. Maloney allegedly then hit Glennie in the face and knocked him to the ice, picked him up by the sweater and dropped him several times. Glennie, 29, was hospitalized for 12 hours with temporary amnesia and a slight concussion.

In 1969, Ted Green of the Boston Bruins and the late Wayne Maki of St. Louis engaged in a stick fight during an exhibition game in Ottawa. They were tried separately on assault charges and each was acquitted.

Last year, Boston's Dave Forbes was charged with aggravated assault after he struck Minnesota's Henry Boucha in the eye with his stick during a Jan. 4 game in Bloomington, Minn. The charge was dropped after Forbes' trial ended in a hung jury.

Marshall Arrested At Michigan State LA Pitcher Was Hitting Ball Without Permit

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Mike Marshall was arrested Tuesday for hitting a baseball without a permit in the Michigan State University Intramural Building.

Campus police officials said they were summoned to the building after tennis-playing students and faculty members complained Marshall's use of a nearby hitting and pitching area disrupted their games.

The hitting-pitching net is situated so baseball and tennis cannot be played simultaneously without disruption, MSU officials said.

"The subject disrupted normal activities, to wit tennis, by hitting a baseball," explained Maj. Adam Zataut, campus uniformed police commander.

All persons who want to use the facilities must reserve space first, said Frank Beeman, intramural director.

Until last Monday, special time slots were reserved automatically for Marshall to practice two days a week, but the area has been in growing demand so the special privilege was withdrawn, according to Beeman.

Marshall knew long ago his special privilege was being withdrawn, Beeman said.

Campus police said the 33-year-old Cy Young Award winner refused to leave unless he was arrested. Police said they drove Marshall to headquarters and booked, fingerprinted and photographed him before releasing him without bond.

A warrant will be sought charging him with disrupting the normal use of a campus area which was assigned through appropriate channels for other educational or extracurricular activities, said Zataut. The misdemeanor carries a maximum $100 fine and 90 days in jail upon conviction.

Marshall, who is working toward a Ph.D. in physiology at MSU, claimed in a telephone interview that the school reneged on an agreement three years ago to clear up permanently the clash between tennis and baseball practice in the building.

"You can listen to administration mumbo-jumbo if you want, but the answer is simple — they do not want Mike Marshall to use the facility," he said.

Beeman, who called police, said, "If there was an error, it was probably letting him use the area for so long without reserving it. Other people had the tennis court reserved when he came in."

Garrett Sets Point Mark

Nets School-Record 47 In Buck Victory

BRONSON — Ken Garrett's sensational point-making spree sparked top-ranked Buchanan to a hard-earned 83-67 non-league victory over Bronson here Tuesday night.

Garrett, a top all-state candidate, poured through a school record 47 points in a game where the Bucks needed a late surge to turn back stubborn Bronson.

The senior forward hit a remarkable 23 of 33 shots from the floor and also hauled down 22 rebounds in turning in his best game in a brilliant four-year career at Buchanan.

Garrett's 47 points break the Buchanan record of 45 set in 1971 by Dave Zdonalik. The 47 are also the top effort by a player this season in southwestern Michigan and the third best output in history by a Blossomland conference player.

Garrett, who also holds the career scoring mark at Buchanan, came up with quarter totals of 14-8-11-14. His ability to stay in the game despite playing the last seven minutes with four fouls really saved the day for Bucks, the No. 1 team in the latest Class C poll, and undefeated in 19 straight games this year.

"We felt if we lost him (Garrett) inside, we would be able to get the ball in the basket," commented Buck coach Bill Wilson. "The rest of the team got him the ball when he was open. He didn't force any shots. He just got himself open and in position to shoot."

Wilson also praised the play of Walt Vanderbush, who repeatedly hit Garrett with a scoring pass and ended with 16 assists.

"From the stand point of ball handling this was Walt's best game of the year. He handled the pressure well. And he sacrificed scoring to get the ball to the other guys."

The Bucks led 22-18 after the first period and 45-37 at intermission, but Bronson came back to tie the game twice late in the third period. But then Garrett, who netted 11 of the Bucks' 13 third-period points, hit the last two buckets of the third period as the winners carried a 58-55 edge going into the finale.

The Bucks then started to pull away with seven minutes left in the game, thanks to Garrett and some excellent foul shooting. Buchanan carried nine of 12 foul shots in the last period while Bronson, which missed five one-and-one chances in the finale and eight for the game, was a mere two of nine.

The only other Buck to reach double figures was Mike Busby, with 13 points.

Buchanan, which needs a win over Brandywine Friday to collect its second regular season undefeated record in history, was 35 of 75 from the field for 47 per cent and hit 13 of 22 free throws. Bronson was 27 of 56 for 48 per cent and only 13 of 27 at the charity lines.

The Bucks held a 48-28 margin on the boards with Mike Busby adding 14 rebounds.

Buchanan lost the Jayvee game 54-52.

In rebounding, SMC held a 37-22 edge.

The Roadrunners' next game will be Thursday at 3:00 p.m. against Henry Ford Community College at Delta. Ford upset Alpena Community College, the nation's fifth-ranked junior college team, 37-33 Tuesday.

WOODEN TO ISRAEL

NEW YORK (AP) — Nat Holman, president of the United States Committee on Sports for Israel, said Tuesday his organization is sending former UCLA basketball Coach John Wooden to Israel May 20-June 3 in conduct a series of basketball clinics.

White, Bale was a key factor on the boards.

Marc Moeller, the area's scoring leader, led Fennville with 29 points, canning 11 of 28 from the floor, while hauling away 18 rebounds. He fouled out with a minute left in the game.

With the effort Moeller becomes the second best single season point maker in area history. He now has 569 points. Richie Jordan, another Blackhawk, has the tops of 738.

The Blackhawks, now 12-7 overall, hit 34 of 83 shots for 41 per cent and 18 of 24 foul shots. The losers were 35 of 79 for 44 per cent and 15 of 26 in free throws.

Fennville held a 52-32 margin on the boards.

Fennville's Schut Wins Game On Last-Second Shot

COMSTOCK PARK — Lyle Schut tossed in a last-second shot to cap a sizzling Fennville rally and give the Blackhawks an 86-85 non-league win over Comstock Park here Tuesday night.

Comstock Park missed a chance to wrap up the game with four seconds left as Don Curtis missed the front end on a one-and-one. Kurt Bale got the rebound and hit Chris Schermer with an outlet pass. Fennville then called time-out with two seconds remaining.

Bale then found Schut with a pass. Schut threw up a 12-foot hook shot to the side of the key. The ball glanced off the backboard into the bucket as the buzzer sounded.

Fennville, which outscored the hosts 27-18 in the finale trailed by as many as 12 points in the game. The final margin was the first time the Blackhawks had led since the first few minutes of the contest. Jim Scudder hit 10 of his 16 points in the last period and Andy Stennett eight of his 13

Kearney To Polish MSU Silver Lining

New AD Holds First News Conference On Campus

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University's new athletic director says he'll polish the silver lining instead of stare at the cloud of a three-year probation for the school's football program.

"My main goals will be to go through the kind of a clouded state we have now for three years, bring people together and get a degree of excitement and credibility," Joseph Kearney said Tuesday in his first news conference at MSU.

"You recognize what the known negatives are in the probation, but you have to realize all the positive points going for you, and accentuate those positives," added Kearney.

Kearney, University of Washington athletic director since 1969, was hired by MSU for $36,000 last Friday. He said sometimes a "little imagination or a little innovation" helps.

"I'm putting MSU's best possible foot forward," he said, though he acknowledged "it's a little early for a game plan."

Kearney, 48, said there "might be some recommendations for some changes" in MSU's sports personnel, but added he needs time to scrutinize the program and the people running it.

Kearney's appointment followed the transfer of the sports program to the office of MSU President Clifton R. Wharton Jr. after Jack Breslin relinquished his duties as top athletic administrator.

Asked Tuesday what his relationship with Wharton would be like, Kearney quickly replied: "Close."

The National Collegiate Athletic Association put MSU's football program on probation last month after finding the school guilty of 34 recruiting and other violations.

Top MSU recruiter Howard Weyers, one of two assistant coaches named in the allegations, was fired by the trustees. Another coach was allowed to remain but was banned from off-campus recruiting for a year.

"At a time when MSU's athletic program demands both aggressive leadership and sound administration, we will look to Dr. Kearney to rebuild our program into one in which integrity and respect will be unchallenged," Wharton said of Kearney last Friday.

Kearney coached high school basketball and football at the University of Washington, where he worked since 1964.

Kearney acknowledged he would have to depend on seasoned local advice for MSU's successful hockey program since hockey is a rarity in relatively barren Washington state.

Kearney also is on several NCAA committees, including one on women's sports. Women, he said, will become "very integral parts of athletic departments."

Garrett Sets Point Mark Nets School-Record 47 In Buck Victory

BRONSON — Ken Garrett's sensational point-making spree sparked top-ranked Buchanan to a hard-earned 83-67 non-league victory over Bronson here Tuesday night.

Garrett, a top all-state candidate, poured through a school record 47 points in a game where the Bucks needed a late surge to turn back stubborn cager this season in southwestern Michigan and the third best output in history by a Blossomland conference player.

Garrett, who also holds the career scoring mark at Buchanan, came up with quarter totals of 14-8-11-14. His ability to stay in the game despite playing the last seven minutes with four fouls really saved the day for Bucks, the No. 1 team in the latest Class C poll and undefeated in 19 straight games this year.

"We felt if we post him (Garrett) inside, we would be able to get the ball to the basket," commented Buck coach Bill Wilson. "The rest of the team got him the ball when he was open. He didn't force any shots. He just got himself open and in position to shoot."

Wilson also praised the play of Walt Vanderbush, who repeatedly hit Garrett with a scoring pass and ended with 16 assists.

"From the stand point of ball handling this was Walt's best game of the year. He handled the pressure well. And he sacrificed scoring to get the ball to the other guys."

The Bucks led 22-16 after the first period and 45-37 at intermission, but Bronson came back to tie the game twice late in the third period. But then Garrett, who netted 11 of the Bucks' 13 third-period points, hit the last two buckets of the third period as the winners carried a 58-55 edge going into the finale.

The Bucks then started to pull away with seven minutes left in the game, thanks to Garrett and some excellent foul shooting. Buchanan canned nine of 12 foul shots in the last period while Bronson, which missed five one-and-one chances in the finale and eight for the game, was a mere two of nine.

The only other Buck to reach double figures was Mike Busby with 13 points.

Buchanan, which needs a win over Brandywine Friday to collect its second regular season undefeated record in history, was 35 of 75 from the field for 47 per cent and hit 13 of 22 free throws. Bronson was 27 of 59 for 46 per cent and only 13 of 27 at the charity lines.

The Bucks held a 48-28 margin on the boards with Mike Busby adding 14 rebounds.

Buchanan lost the jayvee game 54-52.

Tourney Tough S. Haven Is Facing 'Bud' Barriers

Tourney tough South Haven must fight its way past three Blossomland barriers to win another Class B district championship.

Coach M. H. White's Rams have won district titles in three of the last four years and must be favored again in next week's tournament because of an 18-1 record and the state's No. 4 ranking.

South Haven drew Lakeshore for its tourney opener next Monday in drawings Tuesday which firmed up the last two districts in southwestern Michigan.

Up at Fennville Tuesday, the host Blackhawks were matched against Wyoming Lee in a tournament which marks the school's first district in more than 20 years. The favorite at Fennville is Byron Center, which is 19-0 and ranked third in this week's Associated Press Class C poll.

Drawings for the area's other six districts — Benton Harbor, Watervliet, Bridgman, Edwardsburg, Kalamazoo Hackett and Martin — were held Monday.

South Haven, the Wolverine champion, defeated Lakeshore early this season 66-44. But the Rams' only loss was to Dowagiac, another team in the district. It was by a 72-71 margin when the Rams were playing without one of their starters.

Dowagiac, Brandywine and River Valley also carry winning records now, leaving Coloma (Brandywine's tourney opponent Tuesday) as the only tourney team with a losing record.

River Valley played in Class C a year ago and won the district championship.

Another feature of the Fennville tourney will be the Blackhawks' Marc Moeller, southwestern Michigan's scoring leader with a 29.5 average.

Roadrunners Take Tourney Triumph

BAY CITY — Southwestern Michigan College won its 22nd straight game Tuesday when the Roadrunners downed Kalamazoo Valley Community College 82-69 in the first round of the state junior college basketball tournament being played here.

Jim Powers of SMC led all scorers with 21 points, 12 of them coming in the second half. Buchanan's Bill Carson added 20 points, Wayne Batteast had 14 and Robin Plughaupt 12.

Danny Goins of Cassopolis led the Cougars with 16 points. Robert Hunter ended up with 12 and Rodney Turner of South Haven 12.

Carson staked the Roadrunners, now 24-2 this season, to a 45-37 halftime lead by scoring 18 points and commanding the boards. The center snarled 12 cars in the contest.

Powers then took over in the second half, scoring most of his points by penetrating the zone defense set up by KUCC. The Cougars closed the gap to 69-60 with five minutes to go but a pair of baskets by Powers put the game away for SMC.

The Roadrunners hit 37 of 82 field goal attempts for 45 per

Fennville's Schut Wins Game On Last-Second Shot

COMSTOCK PARK — Lyle Schut tossed in a last-second shot to cap a sizzling Fennville rally and give the Blackhawks an 86-85 non-league win over Comstock Park here Tuesday night.

Comstock Park missed a chance to wrap up the game with four seconds left as Don Curtis missed the front end on a one-and-one. Kurt Bale got the rebound and hit Chris Schermer with an outlet pass. Fennville then called time-out with two seconds remaining.

Bale then found Schut with a pass. Schut threw up a 12-foot hook shot to the side of the key. The ball glanced off the backboard into the bucket as the buzzer sounded.

Fennville, which outscored the hosts 27-18 in the finale trailed by as many as 12 points in the game. The final margin was the first time the Blackhawks had led since the first few minutes of the contest. Jim Scudder hit 10 of his 16 points in the last period and Andy Stennett eight of his 13 while Bale was a key factor on the boards.

Marc Moeller, the area's scoring leader, led Fennville with 29 points, canning 11 of 28 from the floor, while hauling away 18 rebounds. He fouled out with a minute left in the game.

With the effort Moeller becomes the second best single season point maker in area history. He now has 560 points. Richie Jordan, another Blackhawk, has the tops of 738.

The Blackhawks, now 12-7 overall, hit 34 of 83 shots for 41 per cent and 18 of 24 foul shots. The losers were 35 of 79 for 44 per cent and 15 of 26 in free throws.

Fennville held a 52-32 margin on the boards.

NEW ATHLETIC DIRECTOR: Joseph L. Kearney (right) confers with Michigan State University President Clifton R. Wharton after being named Athletic Director for the Big Ten school. Kearney To Polish MSU Silver Lining

New AD Holds First News Conference On Campus

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University's new athletic director says he'll polish the silver lining instead of stare at the cloud of a three-year probation for the school's football program.

"My main goals will be to go through the kind of a clouded state we have now for three years, bring people together and get a degree of excitement and credibility," Joseph Kearney said Tuesday in his first news conference at MSU.

"You recognize what the known negatives are in the probation, but you have to realize all the positive points going for you, and accentuate those positives," added Kearney.

Kearney, University of Washington athletic director since 1969, was hired by MSU for $36,000 last Friday. He said sometimes a "little imagination or a little innovation" helps.

"I'm for putting MSU's best possible foot forward," he said, though he acknowledged "it's a little early for a game plan."

Kearney, 49, said there "might be some recommendations for some changes" in MSU's sports personnel, but added he needs time to scrutinize the program and the people running it.

Kearney's appointment followed the transfer of the sports program to the office of MSU President Clifton R. Wharton Jr. after Jack Breslin relinquished his duties as top athletic administrator.

Asked Tuesday what his relationship with Wharton would be like, Kearney quickly replied: "Close."

The National Collegiate Athletic Association put MSU's football program on probation last month after finding the school guilty of 34 recruiting and other violations.

Top MSU recruiter Howard Wevers, one of two assistant coaches named in the allegations, was fired by the trustees. Another coach was allowed to remain but was banned from off-campus recruiting for a year.

"At a time when MSU's athletic program demands both aggressive leadership and sound administration, we will look to Dr. Kearney to rebuild our program into one in which integrity and respect will be unchallenged," Wharton said of Kearney last Friday.

Kearney coached high school basketball and football at the University of Washington, where he worked since 1964.

Kearney acknowledged he would have to depend on seasoned local advice for MSU's successful hockey program since hockey is a rarity in relatively balmy Washington state.

Team Play, Attitude Carrying Young Bulldogs

Small Covert Accomplishing Big Things

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

COVERT — Big things have been coming in small packages for Covert this season.

But despite a starting lineup with no one taller than 6-0, the young Bulldogs have fashioned their best regular season record since the unbeaten 1965-66 team won the state championship.

And Covert has done it with a freshman, a sophomore and two juniors playing a prominent role.

The season started off on the wrong foot for the Bulldogs when last year's top two scorers, Fred Moody and Harold Baber, did not even go out for the team this season.

But Rod DeYoung, who has coached Covert to eight straight winning seasons and a 116-44 record (.725), didn't let the adversity get him down.

"I've got a philosophy," DeYoung says. "Who ever comes out, well, that's who I work with. Whether it happens to be the leading scorers coming back from last year or a new group, that's who I'm dedicated to work with. I don't have the time to worry about what might have been."

But this year's team is taking the worry out of coaching for DeYoung. Covert has scored 90 points or more six times and is leading the area in scoring with an average of 84.3 points per game.

Team play and attitude have been the big difference for the Bulldogs.

"I've never had a team play so well together for a whole season," DeYoung adds. "That's one of the main reasons for our success. We recognize what each individual can do and we put it together in a team situation."

"But no matter what kind of ballplayers you have, the key is attitude. And this team has the best attitude of any that I can recall. They work hard, they work together and they know what each other can do. They accept the individual weaknesses as well as the strengths and work together the best way they can."

Leading Covert is the only senior regular, Rodney Barnes. Though just 5-8 in size, Barnes has been a big man in the Bulldog success.

"Rodney does an excellent job of working as a team leader on the floor, both offensively and defensively," DeYoung continues. "He's a good defensive ballplayer, an excellent ballhandler, has good speed and he has a lot of basketball sense. He's the all-around kind of floor leader that you like to have."

Barnes also leads Covert's balanced scoring attack with a 16.4 scoring mark. Next is 6-0 freshman forward James DeBoe (15.2), a steady but not flashy ballplayer.

"DeBoe has done much better scoring than I thought he would," DeYoung said. "The thing I was looking at when I put him on varsity was his rebounding ability. We are short and I felt we needed the board strength that he could supply."

DeBoe is an excellent outside shooter, but he also surprises many opponents with his work inside. He's especially strong on tipping in missed shots.

Joining DeBoe at the other forward is junior Robert Maggard (12.0), who at 6-0 is the top Covert rebounder. Maggard's defense is what DeYoung is most impressed with.

"I always put him on the best offensive ballplayer on the other team," DeYoung says of Maggard's defense. "He works hard at defense and you have to work hard to do a good job. And he doesn't mind working hard."

goes at the other guard position. Sophomores Steve Hawkins and Mike DeYoung round out the eight-man squad.

"I really didn't expect to do this well," DeYoung says of his early-season apprehensions. "There were so many unknowns that I didn't really know what to expect. I figured if we played decently we could finish over .500."

Things look even brighter for Covert in the future. This year's junior varsity finished 16-4, and its top two scorers were both freshmen. The Bulldog eighth grade also wound up strong with a 10-2 mark.

"We'll be strong as we go along," DeYoung concludes. "If there is one thing that we lack it would be height. Hopefully, we can make up for that with quickness."

Race Track Fire Kills 68 Horses

ALORTON, Ill. (AP) — Racing is scheduled to resume tonight at Cahokia Down Race Track, one day after a fire killed 68 horses.

The fire raced through the 600-foot long wooden structure early Tuesday. The loss was estimated at $500,000.

Fire Marshall William N. Buxton said he learned from interviews with race-track personnel that the barn had had electrical problems "for some time."

Buxton believes the fire was caused by a faulty circuit breaker panel near the west end of the barn. The barn is in the southwest corner of the track complex.

Track manager Jack Weaver said the fire was the worst tragedy in the facility's 22-year history.

Horse owners searched for identifying marks on the charred remains of animals late Tuesday, while track personnel continued to pour water on the smoldering debris.

Track officials said the most valuable horse killed in the fire was "Charlie Rush," which was purchased by the current owner, Dale Peterson of White Pidgeon, Mich., for $35,000.

Ninety-five horses were in the barn when the fire started, but track personnel, owners and firemen led 27 to safety. There were 116 stalls in the building.

Firemen from five fire departments fought to keep the blaze from spreading to other buildings.

The Mississippi Valley Trotting Association, which conducts the races, canceled races Tuesday.

Kansas City Gets Doubles Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The World Championship Tennis match boasting the richest prize in doubles competition moves to Kansas City this spring.

Lamar Hunt, a director of the WCT, said Tuesday that Kansas City was selected as the site of the April 28-May 2 $100,000 doubles championship. This is the fourth year of the championship match, which has always been played outside the United States.

Central Gets Smallbone

Marty Smallbone, Dowagiac's class B All-State football lineman, has signed a national letter of intent to attend Central Michigan University. He will join brother Steve, who will be a junior defensive lineman in the fall for the Chips.

A STUDY IN TOTAL COMMITMENT by Roger's Route

"THAT'S NOT THE ONE, ROGER — BUT SHE'LL DO!"

Don't Jump! Try a H-P "Lost and Found" Ad!

Strictly speaking, the problem of Roger's friend isn't the kind the H-P "Lost and Found" ads are intended to solve. We don't have much luck recovering lost girl friends — and, so far, we've never come up with a replacement.

But we do have great success in locating lost belongings and pets for our readers with classified ads. So many people read the H-P regularly that an ad for something "lost" is most likely to be seen by the person who "found" it.

Nice work, Roger! Now find one for me!

Anthony Heads Money Standings

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., who dominated the Professional Bowlers Association official money standings last year, is back on top in this week after winning $8,000 in the AMF Classic at Garden City, L.I., last Saturday.

Anthony hasn't won a tournament this year but has been runnerup three times and now has earned $23,400. Wayne Zahn of Tempe, Ariz., is second with $18,940, followed by Roy Buckley of Columbus, Ohio, $18,402; Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., $17,640; and Dick Weber of St. Louis, $14,050.

Bullet Backcourt Tandem Topples Bulls, 92-83

From ASSOCIATED PRESS Phil Chenier and Dave Bing, Washington's destructive backcourt duo, are driving opposing teams in the National Basketball Association dizzy.

"While Dave Bing is probably the best all-around guard in the league, it looks as if Phil Chenier is doing him one better," Chicago Coach Dick Motta observed after the Bulls' guard tandem had teamed to gun down the Bulls 92-83 Tuesday night.

'Boring' Tar Heels Whip Wolfpack, Take ACC Title

FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS North Carolina's basketball team either beats you into submission, or bores you to death. In either case, the Tar Heels manage to win.

Tuesday night was time for one of those notorious four-corner delays, a North Carolina specialty that puts the opposition into a deep freeze and the crowd to sleep.

The means justified the end as usual, and the boys in Carolina blue defeated North Carolina State 91-79 to win the Atlantic Coast Conference's regular-season championship.

"We can beat them," snickered the Wolfpack's Kenny Carr. "They're just a bunch of foul shooters."

But that's the point. The Tar Heels sit on a lead as well as anybody in the country and while playing catch on the perimeter of their half of the court, dare the opposition to foul them. Then, someone like Phil Ford makes 16 shots in a row — like he did Tuesday night.

Salvano Has Singles Lead In Tourney

Bob Salvano has the singles lead after the opening weekend of the Blossomland Bowling Association men's city tournament at Blossom Lanes.

Salvano rolled a 732, including a 120 handicap, in singles competition which runs two more weekends.

In the doubles portion of the handicap tournament, the teams of Ken Roberts and Bob Seiber and Bill Garberson and Verge Nitz share the lead at 1365.

Roberts rolled a 666, including a 93 handicap; Seiber a 729, including a 108 handicap; Garberson a 683, including a 60 handicap, and Nitz a 712, including a 132 handicap.

Meanwhile, Gray Elzroth has the early all-events lead at 2052. Trailing Salvano in the singles division are Stan Klimczak (751), Ron Kelly (731), Chuck Miles (723) and Dan Symonds (723).

Rounding out the top five in doubles competition are Nick Santos-Bob Kolberg (1392), Clarence Ott-Vern Mueller (1379) and Jim Meiser-Bruce Long (1378).

Trailing Elzroth in all-events are Jim Bluschke (2050), Cecil Wismer (1984) and Jim Bates (1978).

Lutheran Tourney Championship Set

St. Matthews of Benton Harbor and the St. Joseph Trinity eighth graders meet at 7:45 p.m. Saturday in the Trinity gym for the championship of the Lutheran basketball tournament.

St. Matthews got 11 points from Jeff DeFrance Monday while downing Sawyer Trinity 37-36. Boyd netted 17 for the losers.

Meanwhile, St. Joe Trinity advanced by downing Stevensville Christ Lutheran 40-23. Jeff Little tallied 15 for the winners and Bill Shembarger tossed in 15 for Stevensville.

In consolation games Monday, the Bridgman Immanuel seventh graders beat Berrien Springs Trinity 35-27 and the Bridgman Immanuel eighth grade topped Sodus St. Paul's 33-27.

The winners square off for consolation honors at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Smoking Hazard

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The American Lung Association says nonsmokers face continuous health hazards because of the Pontiac Stadium's refusal to ban smoking.

Chenier scored a game-high 32 points in leading the surging Bulls to their sixth victory in the last seven games and moving them within one-half game of first-place Cleveland in the NBA's Central Division.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Buffalo Braves defeated the New York Knicks 109-103, the Kansas City Kings outlasted the Phoenix Suns 120-117 in overtime, and the Philadelphia 76ers rallied for a 106-102 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets downed the Virginia Squires 111-100, and the Spirits of St. Louis beat the Kentucky Colonels 116-102.

Chenier scored seven straight points, then added another basket within a three-minute span in the third quarter, lifting the Bulls to a 70-61 advantage over Chicago. Bing then teamed up with his backcourt partner to give Washington its biggest lead, 86-73, midway through the final period.

Mickey Johnson topped the Bulls with 30 points.

Bob McAdoo, the league's leading scorer, and Randy Smith each poured in 34 points, helping Buffalo overcome New York in a game in which there were 24 lead changes and 15 ties. Spencer Haywood and Walt Frazier had 24 points apiece for the Knicks.

Jimmy Walker's 28 points and Nate Archibald's driving layup with 16 seconds left in overtime sparked Kansas City's victory. Phoenix' Alvan Adams, game-high scorer with 30 points, sent the game into overtime, tying the score 109-109 with a 25-foot shot with two seconds remaining in regulation time.

Doug Collins scored nine of his 25 points in the third period, helping Philadelphia rally from a 10-point deficit and overtake Portland, breaking a five-game losing streak. George McGinnis added 23 points for the 76ers, while Geoff Petrie led the Trail Blazers with 28 points.

Julius Erving paced New York to its fifth consecutive victory, scoring 23 points and grabbing 14 rebounds. Rich Jones added 22 points for the Nets and Kim Hughes collected 20. Mike Jackson was high for Virginia with 21.

Marvin Barnes scored 16 of his 33 points and Caldwell Jones had 12 of his 18 points in the first half, when St. Louis built a commanding 62-43 advantage and then coasted past Kentucky. Artis Gilmore topped the Colonels with 33 points.

United Way Picks Allocations Chief

James Blair, vice president in charge of auditing for Inter-City bank, has been appointed allocations chairman for Blossomland United Way for 1978, according to Henry Tippet, BUW president. Blair succeeds Conrad Greim for whom he substituted in mid-1975.

The allocations committee is a panel of volunteers from the Blossomland United Way area who act as overseers of money contributed by the community for support of various human service programs. Comprised of four units covering health, family care, youth group services, and central services, the committee sends panelists to agencies for evaluation of program services and financial information. The community can never provide the total dollars requested each year for agency operations which forces allocation workers to fund only the most needed services, Blair said.

Chairmen of the units meet monthly with Blair to decide disbursements for the individual agencies on an as-needed basis. Blair reported the committee authorized $618,083 in agency payments in 1975.

Blair was appointed to his present position at Inter-City bank in 1971. He is a former assistant cashier at the Citizen Banking company, Anderson, Ind. Blair is a graduate of the school for Bank Administration, University of Wisconsin. He is a director of the Twin City YMCA, and past president of the West Michigan chapter, Bank Administrators institute. Blair and his wife, Diana, have a daughter, Susan.

Italy Training U.S. Doctors

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Growing numbers of America's future doctors are being trained in Italy.

With admission to U.S. medical schools confined to about 4,300 new students a year, or about a tenth of the applicants, more than 1,500 Americans are now studying at 27 medical schools in Italy. It is the largest contingent of American medical students in Europe.

A million-dollar organization, the Italo-American Medical Education Foundation, helps Italianize the American students and then re-Americanize them after their Italian education.

About 600 Americans are now immersed in the foundation's "total orientation program."

To work as interns in American hospitals, those trained abroad must pass the examinations of the Educational Council for Foreign Medical Graduates. The president of the foundation, Albert Schragar, says because of his organization's work, the student exiles' chances of passing the exams have gone up from 33 per cent four years ago to 75 per cent.

U.S. and Italian physicians concluded a three-day symposium in Rome Sunday on the problems of the student exiles and ways of closing the differences between U.S. and Italian medical education.

Both students and doctors said that although American technology may give U.S. education a clinical edge over the Italian, the gap is due largely to deficiencies in the Italian educational structure resulting from overcrowding. Italian medical schools are now turning out 12,000 graduates a year, four times the number Italy needs.

The tuition fee in Italian medical schools is only $150 a year; in the United States it is $4,000 or more.

Coming to Italy for his medical education is something of a homecoming for John Tesoriero, a Manhattan College graduate from Fort Lee, N.J. His mother and his paternal grandparents came from the volcanic island of Stromboli, and "at home I heard Italian, ate pasta and mamma was our queen. But I miss our hustle-bustle-produce system."

"Given a choice, we all would like to study at home."

Tesoriero explained that even after passing the examinations required to practice in the United States, the exile may be considered a "second-class" doctor because of his foreign degree.

Area Planners Oppose State Migrant Legal Aid Unit

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

CASSPOLIS — The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission Tuesday voted unanimously to back Berrien county's opposition to the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance project.

Senior planner Bill Gebhard said planning commission members "wholeheartedly" approved a resolution scolding MMLA as "a needless waste of taxpayers' money."

The resolution was presented by Berrien county Commissioner Lad Stacey and was identical to one passed by Berrien commissioners at their regular meeting last Thursday, Gebhard said.

Included in the resolution are charges that farmers and growers are subject to harassment by MMLA employees and that MMLA services duplicate functions performed by the county and state health departments.

Opposition to MMLA has been supported by two farm organizations — the Berrien Farm Bureau and the Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan.

MMLA receives federal funding through the governor's office and represents migrant workers in legal matters.

The planning commission Tuesday also authorized Executive Director Thomas Sinn to pursue a suggestion that the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation sponsor a public transportation study in Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

Gebhard said the suggestion came from James L. Roach, manager of mass transportation planning for the highway department, and that the proposed study would serve as a model for other areas of the state.

The proposed study would involve hiring a private consultant and establishing an advisory council, Gebhard said, and would touch on all public transportation needs of the area, including Dial-A-Ride buses and perhaps even ambulance service.

Gebhard said the project would be completely funded by the state highway department, but that no dollar amount has been stipulated.

The planning commission also received notice that it has been appointed official review agency for all applications for federal assistance from this area by the Office of Management and Budget's regional clearinghouse in Chicago.

Also received was a signed contract for a $50,000 comprehensive planning grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that helps underwrite planning staff operations.

Applications for federal assistance cleared with no negative comments by the planning commission Tuesday included the following:

- Village of Paw Paw street sign replacement, $14,400.
- City of New Buffalo water main extension, a $67,000 loan.
- Hartford township 70th street bridge replacement, $108,900.
- Village of Galien amendment to 1975 sewage treatment grant, $20,000 to purchase land for sewage treatment pools.
- Village of Edwardsburg railroad crossing improvement, $81,000.

Community Development pre-applications cleared included $300,000 each for the Cities of Hartford and South Haven and the village of Decatur and $71,000 for the City of St. Joseph.

Gebhard said the Hartford and Decatur pre-applications are for sewer programs and South Haven's is for housing while St. Joseph's is for improvements at Tiscornia Park.

MIGRANTS' LAWYER ACCUSES BERRIEN BOARD

Atty. Richard Feferman, executive director of the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance Project, Berrien Springs, issued a statement Tuesday in response to a resolution adopted by the Berrien Board of County Board of Commissioners last Thursday.

The county board declared unanimous opposition to Feferman's organization as a "needless waste of taxpayers' money." The resolution said farmers and growers of the county were subject to harassment by MMLA employees.

Feferman's response follows in full:

"The fundamental lack of fairness of this undemocratic procedure casts doubt upon the wisdom and objectivity of the county board.

"We would not criticize the right of the commissioners, or the growers, to express their opinions. But their actions Thursday were not taken as a governmental body, deliberating and formulating policy, or acting as a forum for public debate. Instead, it was a naked and blatant political act, adopting 'policy' as a sup to a group which represents quite a few votes in this area.

"We have learned not to expect intellectual honesty from the spokespersons for the growers. This recent attack marks the opening round in the Sixth Annual Hunt for Scapgoats. Their efforts are myopic, generally restricted to the most visible whipping boy (MMLA, UMO), rather than focusing on the source of their problems. Growers continue to trust Byzantine organizations like the Farm Bureau and to oppose government 'handouts' for anyone who isn't a farmer.

"One newspaper" reported a statement by commissioner Lad Stacey, that "the various offices of the county, including that of the prosecutor, are at the disposal of the growers." If accurate, this statement is a bald threat, not just to us, but to every migrant worker, and perhaps to every dissident or minority person as well, not to step out of line in Berrien county. Viewed in the context of the commissioners' meeting, where no dissent was invited or could have been tolerated, it apparently is intended to intimidate persons for daring to exercise their constitutional right to sue in court or to organize among themselves.

"We call upon Berrien Prosecuting Attorney John Smietanka to pledge that he will not tolerate political interference in the affairs of his office.

"It is difficult to comprehend what has touched off the emotion-laden charges of the growers. We have filed two major lawsuits against Berrien county farmers in the last year. One grower, Alfred Hauch, was convicted in the 9th District court of a misdemeanor violation of the migrant housing code. His punishment (Berrien county justice) was $31 fine and costs. That, hardly inspires the 215 other growers in this county who spent thousands of dollars to keep their labor camps in reasonable condition (hopefully due to their genuine concern for their workers). The migrants we represent are suing Hauch for damages for living under such oppressive conditions, as well as for false promises of recruitment. The court will determine whether such litigation is well founded; we are satisfied it is.

"We also filed suit against William Gifford of Berrien Springs, who paid his cherry pickers at a rate below the minimum set by both the Michigan Minimum Wage Law and the federal Fair Labor Standards Act. We have recovered judgment and damages exceeding $2700 for our clients.

"The charges made in the resolution are totally false. We challenge the growers to demonstrate a single instance of our filing an unwarranted lawsuit.

"How many other county decisions are reached in this same fashion, without a true hearing or public debate? Although we question the propriety of the commissioners reviewing our activities, since we are a statewide program, we do not stand in the way of their first amendment rights to take a nonpartisan, nonpolitical stance. But their method of reaching a decision disproves the adage that, 'where there's smoke, there's fire.' In this instance there is merely a smoke-making machine, obscuring reality.

Police Probe 4 Thefts

Benton Harbor and Benton township police investigated four thefts Tuesday including more than $2,000 in valuables reported stolen from a Benton Harbor home.

Charles Hill told city police a stereo, television, 12-gauge shotgun and .22 caliber rifle, all valued at $2,109, were taken from his home at 180 Catalpa street.

Other thefts reported to city police were:

—A record player, tape player, radio, valued at $200, from the home of Estella White, 582 Green avenue.

—A tape player and tapes, valued at $140, from the car of Jeff Mohn, 18, of 838 Lewis avenue, St. Joseph, parked in a lot on Valley View drive.

Benton township police said a stereo set and portable television were reported stolen from the residence of Floyd Fultz, 808 High Road drive.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested Clarence Coleman, 27, Chicago, Tuesday on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a .38 caliber Derringer. He was booked at the county jail after troopers stopped his car on I-94 near Nickerson avenue, Benton township, about 6:30 p.m.

The county board declared unanimous opposition to Feferman's organization as a "needless waste of taxpayers' money." The resolution said farmers and growers of the county were subject to harassment by MMLA employees.

Feferman's response follows in full:

"The resolution adopted Thursday by the Berrien County Board of Commissioners, opposing the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance Project, is an astonishing example of prejudice and ignorance.

"In their hasty and clumsy rush to judgment, condemning a program about which they had no first hand information, the commissioners exposed themselves as a politically motivated kangaroo court. The growers' presentation was well orchestrated; the commissioners deliberately chose to hear only one side of the issue. At no time we were given notice that the Board wished to consider the subject, no one from the board or elsewhere requested our presence or a statement from us regarding the nature and activities of our program. The 'resolution' apparently was prepared and typed prior to the meeting.

"The fundamental lack of fairness of this undemocratic procedure casts doubt upon the wisdom and objectivity of the county board.

"We would not criticize the right of the commissioners, or the growers, to express their opinions. But their actions Thursday were not taken as a governmental body, deliberating and formulating policy, or acting as a forum for public debate. Campaign Fund Raising Tougher

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some of California's biggest Republican contributors will get free tickets to President Ford's $1,000-a-plate fund-raising dinner next month in Los Angeles.

That will reduce the profit, but that's the way things work

"CUT IT OUT, MAC. THIS IS NO LAUGHING MATTER."

JOHN P. ROCHE
A Word Edgewise

The surprise announcement from Peking that secret police chief Huo Kun-feng had been installed as acting Prime Minister instead of the man previously featured as Chou En-lai's successor, Ten Hsin-ping, has touched off a new wave of speculation about Chinese inscrutability. When you add to this the fact that the children are loose again with their wall posters, denouncing Teng as a "capitalist roadster" and "new Khrushchev," it seems possible that Mao is off on another of his Pentecostal kicks like the "Great Cultural Revolution" of the late 1960s.

However, one factor has largely been overlooked by the China watchers. Mao and his enthusiastic acolytes may be inscrutable, but the Chinese Army (PLA) will doubtless take a dim view of reopening the playground. It was the PLA, obviously working in tandem with Chou En-lai, that cleaned up the mess last time, and in structural terms the military constitute the most powerful in the nation. And trained military leaders have a vested interest in a rational state: They know that young fanatics, even with the inspiration of Mao's thoughts, can not produce 8-inch howitzers in backyard forges.

The harsh fact is that Mao constitutes a massive barrier to the essential modernization of China. Recently I was talking to an American scientist who had been part of a delegation to visit medical facilities in China. The point that struck this extremely intelligent observer was that all the creative talent was in the older, mostly foreign-trained generation.

Pentagon Will Probe Report Of Beef Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is looking into the possibility that fraud and bribery have been involved in the purchase of beef for the armed services.

The probe by officials of the Defense Investigative Service and agents of the Army, Navy and Air Force has been under way since last fall.

It was prompted by complaints from a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., which heard reports of improprieties in the buying of meat for military messes and commissaries.

In the first presidential race after the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1974, Republican fund raisers in California and across the country are working harder and raising less money this year because of $1,000 contribution limits and because of the split between backers of Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

A look at fund-raising efforts in California demonstrates what it's like all over the country. "It is a tough, even and indeed somewhat bitter division between the Reagan and Ford camps, both politically and financially," said Paul Haerle, California state GOP chairman. "There is no dominance one way or the other. In terms of fund-raising ability, the two campaigns rather evenly divided up the muscle," added Haerle, a former Reagan aide now backing Ford.

Both sides are finding the fund raising tougher in 1976, Haerle said. "Nixon '72 was like pulling it off trees. Today it is not there as readily."

Holmes Tuttle, a wealthy Los Angeles auto dealer who is working for Reagan, said: "There were thousands of people who contributed over $1,000. Now they can't."

You have to make more calls, more contacts, more letter writing. It's harder work," added Tuttle, who has been contributing to and raising money for conservative Republicans since 1934. Industrialist David Packard, one of the biggest GOP contributors in California, resigned as Ford's national campaign chairman, saying it was more time-consuming than he anticipated. But Packard is chairman of a $300-a-plate San Francisco dinner for Ford.

In 1972, then-President Richard M. Nixon raised $1.75 million from one dinner in Los Angeles. Over the course of the campaign, Nixon raised over $5

The Ford campaign hopes to raise a little more than $1 million this year in California. Reagan's finance chairman won't give goals for individual states, but observers expect Reagan to raise more than $1.5 million in California.

Reagan does not plan a California fund-raising dinner. His campaign is relying heavily on mail solicitations for smaller contributions. It is also asking backers, who in past years might have given $10,000, to go out and raise $10,000 this year.

One of the most important provisions of the 1974 act imposed the $1,000 lid on individual contributions to candidates for federal office. Big-time political fund raising will never be the same.

Nebraska Joins Seven States

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska has joined a campaign to force a federal constitutional convention if Congress doesn't propose an amendment to require a balanced federal budget.

There is more emphasis now on the fund raiser than on the fund giver. The large giver is obviously "no more," said Charles Reed, GOP national committeeman from California.

That is especially clear in the big dinners.

Nixon described his Sept. 27, 1972 dinner in Los Angeles as "the biggest dinner in the whole history of American politics."

Reed estimates that 20 percent to 30 percent of the seats to that dinner were sold in blocks of $10,000 or more.

The Ford campaign has rented the same hotel ballroom, lined up the same dinner chairman and set the same $1,000-a-plate tab to dine with the President.

But the Ford committee will call it a success if the dinner raises more than one-third of the $1.75 million Nixon brought in in 1972.

"It's a whole different ball game," said Margaret Martin Brock, a Ford backer who is known as the GOP's premier fund raiser in Southern California. "It's very different when nobody can buy a whole table at $10,000."

Henry Salvatori, a multimillionaire Southern California oil man, gave $100,000 to Nixon's 1972 presidential campaign. This year, he gave $1,000 to Ford.

That's the limit, so Salvatori will be admitted free, as a "prepaid" guest, at Ford's March 11 dinner.

There may be another 100 to 150 wealthy Californians in the same free-admission category, including people who in past years bought $10,000 tables to similar dinners.

Recently I was talking to an American scientist who had been part of a delegation to visit medical facilities in China. The point that struck this extremely intelligent observer was that all the creative talent was in the older, mostly foreign-trained generation.

There was a good bit of this concept that "partinost" (wholehearted dedication to the Party) could compensate for ability and training in the ranks of the early Russian Bolsheviks, but Lenin's steel-trap mind would not put up with such nonsense. A whole new category of "non-Party specialists" was invented: Former Czarist officers held leadership positions in Trotsky's army, engineers were cherished, and the view that workers could run factories was condemned as sheer anarchism. As long as they kept out of politics and obeyed orders, these specialists were left alone.

Mao is and always has been in a different category. He is the leading Anabaptist of the Communist Reformation. To put it differently, he is a Marxist romantic who believes that the division of labor is the snake in the Garden of Eden.

Similarly, when he decided the Communist Party apparatus was getting some barnacles, he blamed this degeneration on President Liu Shao-chi and launched the Cultural Revolution. The system for a while resembled seniority in reverse: Elderly bureaucrats were dragged out by the young militants, beaten, and forced to confess their errors. Since Moscow, to Mao, represents bureaucracy triumphant, the Soviet embassy in Peking was constantly besieged by millions of shouters. All in all, it was quite a zoo.

But if you play with anything too hard, it will break, and the breaking point in the Cultural Revolution came when the enthusiasts turned on the PLA, looted arms shipments bound for Hanoi, and got clobbered. Recall that the mysteriously missing Teng is Chief of Staff of the PLA — a rational man in rational company. If I had to bet, a PLA coup would take decided precedence over a new Cultural Revolution.

KEY CHAIN FOR CO-STAR

He-Man Caan Digs Gold

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What macho male he-man star just loves to buy gold trinkets? Why? Big Jimmy Caan, that's who. He gutted his "Harry & Walter Go to New York" co-star Elliott Gould with a heavy gold key chain inscribed, "To Walter, Love Harry."

Q: What's this about the death of Lady Chatterley's lover? — D.M., Greenville, Miss.

A: It's hard to believe but Angelo Ravagli, who died recently in Italy at 84, was reputedly the man referred to in the title of D.H. Lawrence's notorious novel of the 20's, "Lady Chatterley's Lover." Ravagli is supposed to have seduced Mrs. Frieda Lawrence when she and her writer-husband were vacationing in Italy in 1925, thus giving the author the idea for the book. After Lawrence's death, Ravagli lived with Frieda in New Mexico and eventually married her. After Frieda's death, Angelo returned to Italy, very well off. Among the sources of his income were the rights to the book, "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

Q: Is Gina Lollobrigida married? — T.B., Phoenix, Ariz.

A: No, although she is often rumored to be on the brink. Gina, who is strong-willed and doing very well as a photographer-actress, was, for awhile, expected to marry world-famous heart surgeon Dr. Christiana Barnard. But for the last year she has been the companion of Italian industrialist

Giorgio Petrucci. If you listen to Giorgio, marriage is in the offing, but Gina isn't saying anything yet.

Q: Do you think Princess Caroline of Monaco will go into the movies like her mother, Princess Grace? — U.V., Council Bluffs, Iowa.

A: None other than Alfred Hitchcock, who directed Grace Kelley in the 50's, is saying that Caroline would make a dynamite film star. Of course "Hitch" also said that about Tippi Hedren, who hasn't done all that much since "The Birds." But Caroline is certainly a pretty thing and if her parents say yes — or even if they don't — we may very likely be seeing her on the silver screen.

Q: I just love Diane von Furstenberg's clothes. Is it true that this fashion designer is married to a prince? — F.D., Memphis, Tenn.

A: She was married to Prince Egon von Furstenberg and the two were the swiftest of New York couples. However, the Furstenbergs have split and Diane is now a bachelor girl around Manhattan. She's doing okay, though, both with her business and with the very rich movie executive, Barry Diller of Paramount. Diller must be smitten. He recently gave Diane 29 loose diamonds for her 28th birthday.

Q: I know that Errol Flynn's son, Sean, was apparently lost in Indonesia. But didn't Flynn also have a daughter? — Y.S., Battle, Mont.

A: Yes, he did and Rory is now an attractive 28-year-old about to try her hand at film acting. She has been modeling for several years in Europe and in many ways seems to be a chip off the old block. Just recently she became a licensed pilot and is also into skiing, surfing, riding and parachuting. Rory's first film will be a Western. Robin Adams Sloan welcomes questions from readers. While Sloan cannot provide individual answers, questions of general interest will be used in the column. Write to Robin Adams Sloan, care of this newspaper.

FRIEDA: The idea for Lady Chatterley.

CAAN: A gold trinket for Elliott.

PEOPLE

By Robin Adams Sloan

GINA: Marriage? Yes. No. Perhaps.

Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of 154 members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending Feb. 20 were:

HOUSE:
Public Works Jobs Veto — With 41 votes to spare, the House overrode President Ford's veto of a $6.2-billion public works anti-recession bill by a 318-98 vote.
Supporters of overriding the veto contended that the measure would create at least 600,000 badly-needed jobs, mostly in the private sector. They also said so-called counter-cyclical grants would prevent state and local governments from having to raise taxes or lay off personnel.

Supporters of the President's veto argued that the bill would create only about 250,000 jobs and that most of those would not be filled until late 1977 or 1978 when the economy will be well on its way to recovery.

The Senate then failed to override the veto.

Voting to override public works jobs bill veto: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), O'Neill (Majority Leader).
Voting to sustain public works

jobs bill veto: Brown (R), Hutchinson (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

SENATE:
Public Works Jobs Veto — The Senate fell three votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override the President's veto of a $6.2-billion public works anti-recession bill. The vote was 63-35.

It was the second time within a year that Congress has been unable to override a veto of job-creating legislation. In June 1975, the House sustained Ford's veto of an emergency jobs appropriations bill.

Voting to override public works jobs bill veto: Hart (D).
Voting to sustain public works jobs bill veto: Griffin (R).

Military Arms Sales — By a 90-30 vote, the Senate passed a bill giving Congress broad new authority to control sales of military weapons and equipment to other nations. The authority would apply to sales by both the federal government and private industry.

Supporters of the new controls maintained that the United States was selling weapons overseas "like hardware or appliances" and that the transactions, amounting to $12-billion in fiscal 1976, were causing international instability rather than peace, particularly in the Middle East.

Opponents argued that Congress should not interfere with such business transactions and that prohibitions on sales to certain nations would cause unemployment in the U.S. armaments and munitions industry.

Voting for new controls over military sales abroad: Griffin (R), Hart (D).

He-Man Caan Digs Gold

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What macho male he-man star just loves to buy gold trinkets? Why, big Jimmy Caan, that's who. He gifted his "Harry & Walter Go to New York" co-star Elliott Gould with a heavy gold key chain inscribed, "To Walter, Love Harry."

Q: What's this about the death of Lady Chatterley's lover? — D.M., Greenville, Miss.

A: It's hard to believe but Angelo Ravagli, who died recently in Italy at 84, was reputedly the man referred to in the title of D.H. Lawrence's notorious novel of the 20's, "Lady Chatterley's Lover." Ravagli is supposed to have seduced Mrs. Frieda Lawrence when she and her writer-husband were vacationing in Italy in 1925, thus giving the author the idea for the book. After Lawrence's death, Ravagli lived with Frieda in New Mexico and eventually married her. After Frieda's death, Angelo returned to Italy, very well off. Among the sources of his income were the rights to the book, "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

Q: Is Gina Lollobrigida married? — T.B., Phoenix, Ariz.

A: No, although she is often rumored to be on the brink. Gina, who is strong-willed and doing very well as a photographer-actress, was for awhile expected to marry world-famous heart surgeon Dr. Christian Barnard. But for the last year she has been the companion of Italian industrialist

Giorgio Petrucchelli. If you listen to Giorgio, marriage is in the offing, but Gina isn't saying anything yet.

Q: Do you think Princess Caroline of Monaco will go into the movies like her mother, Princess Grace? — U.V., Council Bluffs, Iowa.

A: None other than Alfred Hitchcock, who directed Grace Kelley in the 50's, is saying that Caroline would make a dynamite film star. Of course "Hitch" also said that about Tippi Hedren, who hasn't done all that much since "The Birds." But Caroline is certainly a pretty thing and if her parents say yes — or even if they don't — we may very likely be seeing her on the silver screen.

Q: I just love Diane von Furstenberg's clothes. Is it true that this fashion designer is married to a prince? — F.D., Memphis, Tenn.

A: She was married to Prince Egon von Furstenberg and the two were the swiftest of New York couples. However the Furstenbergs have split and Diane is now a bachelor girl around Manhattan. She's doing okay, though, both with her business and with the very rich movie executive, Barry Diller of Paramount. Diller must be smitten. He recently gave Diane 29 loose diamonds for her 29th birthday.

Q: I know that Errol Flynn's son, Sean, was apparently lost in Indochina. But didn't Flynn also have a daughter? — Y.S., Butte, Mont.

A: Yes, he did and Rory is now an attractive 28-year-old about to try her hand at film acting. She has been modeling for several years in Europe and in many ways seems to be a chip off the old block. Just recently she became a licensed pilot and is also into skiing, surfing, riding and parachuting. Rory's first film will be a Western.

Robin Adams Sloan welcomes questions from readers. While Sloan cannot provide individual answers, questions of general interest will be used in the column. Write to Robin Adams Sloan, care of this newspaper.

FRIEDA: The idea for Lady Chatterley.

CAAN: A gold trinket for Elliott.

GINA: Marriage? Yes. No. Perhaps.

CQ Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending Feb. 20 were:

HOUSE

Public Works Jobs Veto — With 41 votes to spare, the House overrode President Ford's veto of a $6.2-billion public works anti-recession bill by a 318-98 vote.

Supporters of overriding the veto contended that the measure would create at least 600,000 badly-needed jobs, mostly in the private sector. They also said so-called counter-cyclical grants would prevent state and local governments from having to raise taxes or lay off personnel.

Supporters of the President's veto argued that the bill would create only about 250,000 jobs and that most of those would not be filled until late 1977 or 1978 when the economy will be well on its way to recovery.

The Senate then failed to override the veto.

Voting to override public works jobs bill veto: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), O'Neill (Majority Leader).

jobs bill veto: Brown (R), Hutchinson (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

SENATE

Public Works Jobs Veto — The Senate fell three votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override the President's veto of a $6.2-billion public works anti-recession bill. The vote was 63-35.

It was the second time within a year that Congress has been unable to override a veto of job-creating legislation. In June 1975, the House sustained Ford's veto of an emergency jobs appropriations bill.

Voting to override public works jobs bill veto: Hart (D).

Voting to sustain public works jobs bill veto: Griffin (R).

Military Arms Sales — By a 60-30 vote, the Senate passed a bill giving Congress broad new authority to control sales of military weapons and equipment to other nations. The authority would apply to sales by both the federal government and private industry.

Supporters of the new controls maintained that the United States was selling weapons overseas "like... hardware or appliances" and that the transactions, amounting to $12-billion in fiscal 1976, were causing international instability rather than peace, particularly in the Middle East.

Opponents argued that Congress should not interfere with such business transactions and that prohibitions on sales to certain nations would cause unemployment in the U.S. armaments and munitions industry.

Voting for new controls over military sales abroad: Griffin (R), Hart (D).

Coleman Asks For 'Contingency'

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Coleman Young said Tuesday he has asked all city departments to draw up contingency plans for a possible 30 per cent budget cut.

Young said it would be impossible for some departments, like the police, to actually make such cuts. But he said other units might be forced to cut further or be eliminated altogether to achieve a 30 per cent across-the-board reduction.

Want Taxes 'Justified'

DETROIT (AP) — Officials of three Wayne County townships, prodded by angry residents, have decided to withhold payments for drainage taxes until the taxes can be justified. But the county drain commissioner, Charles Youngblood, warned the protest may backfire and cost the townships a penalty payment. "It's up to the county commissioners to prosecute them (for withholding taxes), and in three years their property will be up for sale," said Youngblood. But Richard Sullivan, Huron Township treasurer, said all the townships are asking the county drain officials to do "is to tell us what they did to earn the money. If they have a legitimate bill to be paid, we'll pay. We've been asking them for the past year, but we haven't seen anything physical, any evidence of any work they've done." Joining Huron Township in voting to hold the payments in escrow until the taxes can be justified were officials of Van Buren and Brown-town townships.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced again today, with traders apparently bracing for another charge at the elusive 1,000-mark in the Dow Jones industrial average. The Dow was ahead fractionally minutes after the opening and advances held a narrow lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said that some profit taking was evident with the Dow hovering at the 995 level for the past day or so. But they added that there was enough buying power around, particularly among institutional investors with a lot of cash to spare, to push the widely followed indicator above the 1,000 mark for the first time in three years.

On the news front, analysts could see little effect on Wall Street as a result of Tuesday's New Hampshire presidential primary. Some, however, viewed Ronald Reagan's strong second place showing against President Ford as a possible party challenge to the incumbent's strength.

Among today's prices, Warner Communications added 3/8 to 23 1/2, US Life Corp. up 1/2 to 15, and Dow Chemical declined a point to 111 1/4.

The Dow industrials almost challenged the 1,000-mark for the first time in three years Tuesday, adding 8.27 to 993.550 its highest close since a 996.76 finish on Feb. 13, 1973.

Volume on the Big Board stepped up to 34.38 million shares from 31.46 million the previous session, and NYSE gainers were ahead of losers by about a 5 to 3 margin.

The NYSE composite stock index rose 0.23 to 54.62, while the American Exchange's market value index climbed 0.81 to 105.11.

Sodus Will Join In Sewage Study

SODUS — The Sodus township board last night approved an agreement to participate with nine other local governments in the area in an engineering study of sewage treatment needs for the next 20 years. The agreement approved was in the form of a resolution which affirmed the township's intent to participate.

The other governmental units selected by the state department of natural resources to participate in the study are the cities of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, the villages of Shoreham and Stevensville, and the townships of Benton, Hagar, St. Joseph, Lincoln and Royalton.

The state and federal governments will pay for 80 per cent of the cost of the engineering study, and the local governments will share the remainder of the cost on a prorated basis.

The resolution passed last night designates the board of commissioners of the Twin Cities sewage disposal plant as the agency to apply for funding for the study.

sidewalks and everybody goes. Why is it other schools don't believe in sharing equally? Are they ashamed to sit next to their teenagers who are supporting their team? We aren't! Others put their teenagers on one side and adults across the gym. It seems the enthusiasm is greater when you work as one body. Our cheerleaders work in front of the adults and the spirit is contagious. The team will tell you how good it is to feel the roar from the entire side of one gym. Friday night, at LMC, the same situation will exist and in previous years, we were told personally, by LMC parents that we could not sit among them, although there was no room elsewhere.

Ironically you published a series on officiating last week. I feel it is appropriate to voice an opinion. Yes, refs are human, and we certainly saw how extremely human they were Friday night. (They really wanted the jolly green giant to upset the Gaels and they succeeded.) I take no credit away from the Berrien Springs team, they have a good team. But it wasn't them that won, but other "elements". I feel this game should have been protested only because the time clocks were not together and seconds are critical. No ref should allow a clock to run unless it is correct. Our players were working for a last second shot, took it with three seconds left, when ball went through the hoop there remained two seconds, but buzzer had sounded. They were depending on that clock, only to have the ref designate it wrong. That could have been the game. We lost by three only because the officiating in last two seconds of game created a technical shot. Last year the same situation existed. Berrien should have an excellent home record if they pull this on all teams, with both clocks in disagreement. (They evidently practice with the "off" clock. I don't blame the Blossomland league for letting Berrien out, they probably get tired of fighting the situation too.) I will never know what it is like to be a jolly green giant and beat a small school, but it must be humiliating to get beat and by them.

Hoosier Charged In Fatal Smashup

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — The driver of one of three cars involved in a crash which claimed the life of one man near here early yesterday was charged with negligent homicide yesterday afternoon. State police from the Niles post said the charge was filed against William Jones, 21, of South Bend. In district court here, Jones demanded preliminary examination on the charge and was released on a $2,000 personal recognizance bond. The hearing date was set for March 2 by Judge John Iwanick.

The crash occurred about 7:40 a.m. on US-31 north of Niles near Ullery road. Killed was David Prater, 25, 305 Cecil street, Buchanan.

According to troopers, the charge was filed after their investigation showed the Jones auto had bumped the rear of the Prater car just before the Prater car crossed the centerline into the path of the third car, driven by Allen Hawes, 43, Niles.

Police said both the Prater and Jones auto were southbound on US-31. The Hawes auto was northbound.

A preliminary investigation

just after the accident had the Jones auto traveling north and running into the wreckage of the other two cars.

Dr. David Speers of Niles, deputy Berrien county medical examiner, ruled Prater died of a broken neck and internal injuries received in the crash, police said.

Two other men were injured in the crash, Hawes, and his passenger, Ralph Heyn, 46, of Niles. Heyn remained hospitalized at Pawling hospital, Niles, this morning and was listed in good condition. Hawes was treated and released from the hospital for minor injuries received in the crash.

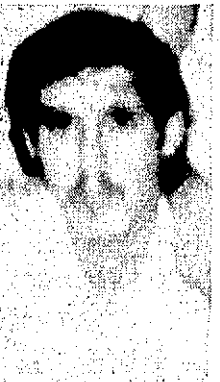

Mr. Prater was born Aug. 21, 1950, in South Bend, Ind., and was a student at Southwestern Michigan college. He was a Navy veteran.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mary Lahring, a daughter, Spring; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Prater, Buchanan; two brothers, Mike and Gregory, both of Niles; a sister, Mrs. Werner Becker, San Jose, Calif.

Mr. Prater was a member of the Buchanan Church of Christ.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in the Swen-Smith funeral home, Buchanan, where friends may call after 7 this evening. Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Southwestern Michigan college school of nursing.

Man Faces Reduced Charge

Bound over following examination in Berrien Fifth District court was Dennis R. Everett, 24, of M-51, Dowagiac, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Thomas Pratt, manager of the Benton Heights office.

District Judge Hugh Black said that evidence presented at preliminary examination showed only that Pratt was struck by a man wielding a pipe at the office Feb. 13.

Pratt's testimony did not show that the assailant intended to commit a robbery, Black ruled. According to testimony by Pratt, who suffered scalp wounds during the struggle, the assailant never attempted to take anything from a safe that was open and in view during the incident, said Black.

Everett was returned to the county jail under $25,000 bond.

sidewalks and everybody goes. Why is it other schools don't believe in sharing equally? Are they ashamed to sit next to their teenagers who are supporting their team? We aren't! Others put their teenagers on one side and adults across the gym. It seems the enthusiasm is greater when you work as one body. Our cheerleaders work in front of the adults and the spirit is contagious. The team will tell you how good it is to feel the roar from the entire side of one gym. Friday night, at LMC, the same situation will exist and in previous years, we were told personally, by LMC parents that we could not sit among them, although there was no room elsewhere.

Ironically you published a series on officiating last week. I feel it is appropriate to voice an opinion. Yes, refs are human, and we certainly saw how extremely human they were Friday night. (They really wanted the jolly green giant to upset the Gaels and they succeeded.) I take no credit away from the Berrien Springs team, they have a good team. But it wasn't them that won, but other "elements". I feel this game should have been protested only because the time clocks were not together and seconds are critical. No ref should allow a clock to run unless it is correct. Our players were working for a second shot, took it with three seconds left, when ball went through the hoop there remained two seconds, but buzzer had sounded. They were depending on that clock, only to have the ref designate it wrong. That could have been the game. We lost by three only because the officiating in last two seconds of game created a technical shot. Last year the same situation existed. Berrien should have an excellent home record if they pull this on all teams, with both clocks in disagreement. (They evidently practice with the "off" clock. I don't blame the Blossomland league for letting Berrien out, they probably get tired of fighting the situation too.) I will never know what it is like to be a jolly green giant and beat a small school, but it must be humiliating to get beat and by them.

Bangor Man Bound To Trial Court

PAW PAW — A Bangor man was bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday following preliminary examination on one charge each of delivery of marijuana, PCP, and LSD.

Arthur Minshall, 30, is charged with selling the drugs to an undercover police officer Aug. 15 in Bangor Township. He was continued at liberty on his own recognizance.

In another case, O'Neal Guyness, 21, Chicago Heights, Ill., was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of absconding on bond.

He is accused of absconding on $500 bond following his arrest in October on a charge of auto theft. Guyness was ordered held on $4,000 bond.

BUCHANANITE DIES

Hoosier Charged In Fatal Smashup

South Berrien Bureau

NILES — The driver of one of three cars involved in a crash which claimed the life of one man near here early yesterday was charged with negligent homicide yesterday afternoon. State police from the Niles post said the charge was filed against William Jones, 21, of South Bend. In district court here, Jones demanded preliminary examination on the charge and was released on a $2,000 personal recognizance bond. The hearing date was set for March 2 by Judge John Iwanuk.

The crash occurred about 7:40 a.m. on US-31 north of Niles near Ullery road. Killed was David Prater, 25, 305 Cecil street, Buchanan.

According to troopers, the charge was filed after their investigation showed the Jones auto had bumped the rear of the Prater car just before the Prater car crossed the centerline into the path of the third car, driven by Allen Hawes, 43, Niles.

Police said both the Prater and Jones auto were southbound on US-31. The Hawes auto was northbound.

A preliminary investigation

just after the accident had the Jones auto traveling north and running into the wreckage of the other two cars.

Dr. David Speers of Niles, deputy Berrien county medical examiner, ruled Prater died of a broken neck and internal injuries received in the crash, police said.

Two other men were injured in the crash, Hawes, and his passenger, Ralph Heyn, 46, of Niles. Heyn remained hospitalized at Pawating hospital, Niles, this morning and was listed in good condition. Hawes was treated and released from the hospital for minor injuries received in the crash.

Mr. Prater was born Aug. 21, 1950, in South Bend, Ind., and was a student at Southwestern Michigan college. He was a Navy veteran.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mary Lahring; a daughter, Spring; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Prater, Buchanan; two brothers, Mike and Gregory, both of Niles; a sister, Mrs. Werner Becker, San Jose, Calif.

Mr. Prater was a member of the Buchanan Church of Christ. Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in the Swem-Smith funeral home, Buchanan, where friends may call after 7 this evening. Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Southwestern Michigan college school of nursing.

Man Faces Reduced Charge

A man originally charged with attempting to rob Community Finance Co. was bound over to Circuit on a reduced charge yesterday.

Bound over following examination in Berrien Fifth District court was Dennis R. Everett, 24, of M-51, Dowagiac, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Thomas Pratt, manager of the Benton Heights office.

District Judge Hugh Black said that evidence presented at preliminary examination showed only that Pratt was struck by a man wielding a pipe at the office Feb. 13.

Pratt's testimony did not show that the assailant intended to commit a robbery, Black ruled. According to testimony by Pratt, who suffered scalp wounds during the struggle, the assailant never attempted to take anything from a safe that was open and in view during the incident, said Black.

Everett was returned to the county jail under $25,000 bond.

By MARTIN MERZER
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Have you heard the one about the borscht-belt talent agent who traveled south and struck it rich producing shows for thousands of condominium dwellers?

It's no joke. Several agents and producers are booking hundreds of shows a week — including small dance combos, road versions of Broadway shows and veteran headliners such as Sid Caesar and Phil Silvers — for residents of what is called "the high-rise, borscht-belt south."

"This is very much like the borscht circuit," said agent Guy Barry, referring to the almost legendary tours of hotels, bun-

Residents Form Big Audience

Condominiums Revive Vaudeville

galow colonies and almost any place else in New York's Catskill Mountains where more than two people gathered and paid for up-and-coming or down-and-fading comics and singers.

"Within two years, this will surpass anything the borscht belt ever was," Barry said. "The acts can depend on this area because we have a 12-month season. Audiences are here all year around, not just the summer like in the Catskills."

When vaudeville began declining in the 1930s and '40s, the Catskill region took on added importance as a training ground for young entertainers, and as a place where oldtimers could still make a buck.

Such luminaries as Jerry Lewis, Danny Kaye and Buddy Hackett were among the scores of headliners who began their careers by entertaining "the primarily Jewish audiences who each summer retreated to the area, about 100 miles northwest of New York City."

But in the late 1960s, the region's hotels began losing large numbers of steady customers who had retired and bought condominium apartments in Florida.

So the agents, and their entertainers, followed.

"It's exactly like the Catskills, only here you don't have the bad roads and the weather's a lot better," said Audre Breen, who along with partner Jerry Grant runs one of the largest production outfits in the area.

"Many of our entertainers who are still working the Catskills take runs of 10 days or so here as a working vacation," she said. "They bring the kids down, and maybe visit with the grandparents."

Grant, who likes to play down the borscht-belt comparison because "we bring talent to all ethnic groups here, not just the Jewish-oriented places," said a headliner such as Sid Caesar, Rosemary Clooney or Normi Crosby can earn more than $10,000 for a 10-day tour.

"We bring them in for about 10 days at a time, two shows a night," said Grant, who worked as an agent in New York until 1951 when "I came down here for a two-week vacation and never left."

While most agents sell the show to condominium associations, which then decide how much to charge each resident, Grant offers to take the risk of a low turn-out in return for the whole purse.

The odds are helped by the fact that, for a show featuring a headliner, the center must have at least 500 seats.

Ruth Foreman, who runs a Miami theater group, said she has brought several plays to condominiums.

"If you want to stay on top, you've got to give them what they want. Since we're in the condo belt, we've been doing plays like 'The Life and Story of Sholem Aleichem,'" she said. "But we don't want to turn into a Yiddish theater, so we're now doing a play about young people trying to break into show business."

She said cast members each earn between $25 to $50 a performance, and the shows help support her theater.

"There's no question about it — it's getting bigger, all the time," she said of the condominium market. "It's very lucrative and hasn't leveled off yet."

Les Schonfeld, activities director for a Boynton Beach condominium complex, said the talent generally falls into three categories.

"You have the relative oldtimers like Peter Lind-Hayes and his wife, Mary, and Billy Eckstine; the nonstar oldtime comedians and singers, and the young people who use it as a showcase; and the real stars," said Schonfeld, who helps the condominium association arrange its shows.

Schonfeld said some of the residents — while generally appreciative that quality entertainers are brought, almost literally, to their front doors for relatively low prices — are becoming slightly spoiled.

"We've been doing this for three years and some people are saying, 'Hey, we saw that guy two years ago,'" Schonfeld said. "But on the whole, it works really well. It gives the people entertainment, and it gives the talent a chance to be seen."

Television's Getting To You If These Items Ring True

NEW YORK (AP) — You've been watching way too much television lately if you:

—Can't recall whether Walter Cronkite, John Chancellor or Harry Reasoner won last night's New Hampshire primary.

—Have seen John Wayne doing an impression of Rich Little.

—Were thrilled at CBS' plans for live coverage of Muhammad Ali's next title fight, against Mason Reese (the commercials start at 9 p.m. EST, the bout an hour and 55 minutes later).

—Shrug when the television reporter asks the badly injured accident victim, "Can you tell us how you felt when the train hit your bicycle?"

—Watch a Saturday afternoon commercial, obediently pick up the phone as the announcer says, "Now, here's where to call..." and wind up wondering why you paid $6.95 for 20 old Teresa Brewer records.

—Believe the Public Broadcasting Service is made possible by a grant from the British Broadcasting Corporation.

—Quiet down during those dog food commercials where a coyote howls and Lorne Green whispers, "Shh! Listen! Listen!"

—Have seen the "American Academy of Humor Awards," "The People's Choice Awards," and "The American Music Awards" but still plan to watch the "Academy of Country Music Awards" as well as the shows handing out Tony, Grammy, Emmy and Oscar awards.

—Haven't heard rumors ABC will radically alter its summer Olympics show by televising every event live and in sequence while Jim McKay describes every event on tape and out of sequence. To brighten interest, Curt Gowdy reportedly will cover Pierre Salinger.

—Don't wonder why studio audiences don't hold up signs saying "Clap! Clap!" when the studio sign overhead flashes "Please Applaud."

—Think "Rich Man, Poor Man" is a spin-off situation comedy about the Six Million Dollar Man's first and second visit to the Internal Revenue Service.

But seriously, folks, commercial television's rerun season is drawing agh and you might give some thought to trying some new wares public television will be offering from March 7 through March 22.

The specials, 22 in all, will be aired during PBS' "Festival '78," when local stations hold fund-raising drives and try to make viewers more aware of public television.

singer, Edith Piaf; "Denito Mussolini, My Husband," a study of the Italian dictator, with interviews of his widow and one of his sons; and "Mel Tormé in Concert with Woody Herman."

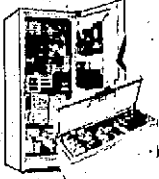

Other goodies include a 10-program series of excerpts of early silent comedy films starring Laurel and Hardy; a whimsical documentary about this year's Super Bowl bash; and "The Good Old Days of Radio."

Residents Form Big Audience

By MARTIN MERZER
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Have you heard the one about the borscht-belt talent agent who traveled south and struck it rich producing shows for thousands of condominium dwellers?

It's no joke. Several agents and producers are booking hundreds of shows a week — including small dance combos, road versions of Broadway shows and veteran headliners such as Sid Caesar and Phil Silvers — for residents of what is called "the high-rise, borscht-belt south."

"This is very much like the borscht circuit," said agent Guy Barry, referring to the almost legendary tours of hotels, bungalow colonies and almost any place else in New York's Catskill Mountains where more than two people gathered and paid for up-and-coming or down-and-fading comics and singers.

"Within two years, this will surpass anything the borscht belt ever was," Barry said. "The acts can depend on this area because we have a 12-month season. Audiences are here all year around, not just the summer like in the Catskills."

When vaudeville began declining in the 1930s and '40s, the Catskill region took on added importance as a training ground for young entertainers, and as a place where oldtimers could still make a buck.

Such luminaries as Jerry Lewis, Danny Kaye and Buddy Hackett were among the scores of headliners who began their careers by entertaining the primarily Jewish audiences who each summer retreated to the area, about 100 miles northwest of New York City.

Borscht is a Russian food, and many of the Jews were Russian immigrants. Thus the name "borscht belt."

But in the late 1960s, the region's hotels began losing large numbers of steady customers who had retired and bought condominium apartments in Florida.

So the agents, and their entertainers, followed.

"It's exactly like the Catskills, only here you don't have the bad roads and the weather's a lot better," said Audre Breen, who along with partner Jerry Grant runs one of the largest production outfits in the area.

"Many of our entertainers who are still working the Catskills take runs of 10 days or so here as a working vacation," she said. "They bring the kids down, and maybe visit with the grandparents."

Grant, who likes to play down the borscht-belt comparison because "we bring talent to all ethnic groups here, not just the Jewish-oriented places," said a headliner such as Sid Caesar, Rosemary Clooney or Norm Crosby can earn more than $10,000 for a 10-day tour.

"We bring them in for about 10 days at a time, two shows a night," said Grant, who worked as an agent in New York until 1951 when "I came down here for a two-week vacation and never left."

While most agents sell the show to condominium associations, which then decide how much to charge each resident, Grant offers to take the risk of a low turn-out in return for the whole purse.

"We bring the show into the building's recreation center and charge $3 per ticket," said Grant. "We take the gamble that not enough people will show up."

The odds are helped by the fact that, for a show featuring a headliner, the center must have at least 500 seats.

Ruth Foreman, who runs a Miami theater group, said she has brought several plays to condominiums.

"If you want to stay on top, you've got to give them what they want. Since we're in the condo belt, we've been doing plays like 'The Life and Story of Sholom Aleichem,'" she said.
